Robesonia Farmer Wins Berks Conservation Award

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent

ROBESONIA (Berks Co.) — Mark A. Wolfskill doesn't like squares. At least not for his crop fields.

Give him a curving contour strip any day. Not just because of its natural beauty, but the way this type of cultivating conserves the soil and water.

It's a way of farming Wolfskill has been doing for so long that it's just second nature to him. Besides, it's logical.

"Strip cropping holds the soil," he said.

Wolfskill, of Robesonia R.D. 1, was named Outstanding Conservation Farmer of 1992 by the Berks County Conservation District.

He and his sons, Mark F., Douglas M., and David M., grow corn, soybeans, and hay on 740 acres that they own and rent. The acreage, which includes nine farms, supports 220 dairy animals and 230 beef cattle.

Since 1969, when he signed up as a cooperator with the district, he has practiced pasture management, no-till, and minimum-tillage on his contour strips.

Through the years, the Conservation District has helped him farm in an environmentally conscious manner by designing a conservation plan for his farm.

Such plans may involve installing drain tiles under the ground to help eliminate wet spots and planting grass in waterways to keep the soil from washing away.

He points to the pasture beside his house. It, along with an adjacent cornfield, is on a slope. But the drainage area is completely covered with grass. No standing water here.

The extra work involved in cultivating with the environment in

Sniders Take Table Of Trophies

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Sniders Homestead and its various Guernsey owners took home a tableful of trophies at the 62nd annual awards banquet held recently.

The George W. Snyder Award and the Sewickley Trophy both went to Aaron Gable of Sniders Homestead. Aaron had the champion at the Pennsylvania Jr. Dairy Show and was the champion of Youth Show at the 1993 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

The Snider-Homestead Farm was also granted the John Brachman Award for having the grand champion at the 1993 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Production awards were as follows: high herd for milk and protein in 1992, Axel Linde and Millie Widmann for 56 cows with 17,099 pounds of milk, 766 fat, and 602 protein.

Rutter Brothers took the high herd for fat in 1992 award. They have 50 cows, 16,548 pounds of milk, 575 protein, and 768 fat.

Top cow for milk and protein in 1992 was the Trotacre Fayette Loretta, 28,235 pounds of milk, 984 fat, and 874 protein.

The top cow for fat in 1992 was Sunnybend Shannon Telestar owned by Thomas Boyer. Her record was 18,095 pounds of milk, 666 protein, and 1,082 fat.

All-Pennsylvania awards went

Rodgers Named National Grassland Council President

DES MOINES, Iowa — John Reed Rodgers, a dairy farmer from Belleville, was named president of the American Forage and Grassland Council (AFGC), a 7,000 member organization dedicated to the profitable production and sustainable utilization of quality forage and grasslands. AFGC has affiliate councils in 32 states and provinces and is truly a North American organization. One of the affiliates is the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council, of which Rodgers is a charter member.

Rodgers is the first producer to head the 50-year-old council, which is comprised of members from agricultural industry, public service and producers. The common thread is forages and grass-

ADC Instructs Producers No BST ... For Now

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — The largest dairy marketing cooperative in Pennsylvania has issued a statement to its members this week advising them not to use injectable, supplemental bovine somatotropin (BST), until further notice.

The reason: marketing battles, skittish consumers and threats of perpetuating fears of BST by anti-beef and anti-biotechnology activists.

According to Dr. Paul Hand, general manager of the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, an advisory letter was mailed out April 16 and arrived in the hands of members this past week to inform them of the moratorium on using the supplemental drug because one of ADC's biggest milk buyers, Johanna Farms, has claimed it will be "BGH-free," just like its main competitor, Farmland Dairies.

Farmland Dairies, run by Marc Goldman, was one of the first processors to allow its name to be used by anti-beef and anti-biotechnologist Jeremy Rifkin in his call to ban BST by listing and publicizing all businesses which Rifkin considers "safe."

Rifkin allegedly mailed letters to major dairy processors and chain restaurants within the past year outlining his plan to publicize the names of those who fail to join him. Those who fail to join would be listed as places to avoid and treat with suspicion.

ADC is the largest dairy cooperative in Pennsylvania and ninth in the nation, marketing about 3.5 billion pounds of milk per year, which is about a third of the Pennsylvania production.

Although every producer and processor in the world could claim to be "BGH-free" there is no way to tell, because there is no such thing, Hand said the position that the cooperative is taking is out of consideration for the milk to be sold.

He said that until the consumer understands that there is no danger in the milk, the cooperative has decided to direct its members not to ship milk that was derived from BST-injected cows.

Of course, Hand said he realized that there is no way the cooperative can know how the milk being shipped was produced.

Nevertheless, the cooperative is taking the position, he said, because it is the expedient thing to do for the membership.

"We had discussed this among the members of Pennmarva (Pennsylvania-Maryland-Virginia) to see if we could arrive at a similar position among all the cooperatives — both the major cooperatives and the smaller ones," Hand said.

"We felt that (we would take this position), since . . . the processors had surveyed the consumers and found that there was resis-

Most trading was reported at a solid 2.10 with some smaller volumes sold at higher prices. The trade sentiment was firm. Line run breasts were also tight with less than trucklot volumes booked at higher trending prices. Leg quarters were in close balance with immediate needs and short of covering buyer inquiries for next week deliveries. The trade sentiment was rated fully steady. Wings continued short of trade needs but some buyer caution at the higher prices was noted.

Wednesday, April 21, 1993

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was fair to good and best on tight supplies of 3 pound and lighter weights. Heavier sizes were fully adequate. Live supplies were moderate; weights varied in a full range of light to heavier than desired. Processing schedules continued very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 52 to 64 cents. Trade sentiment was steady. In the part complex, breast items were short of an active call. Wings were barely adequate to adequate. The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

APRIL 26-MAY 2, 1993

INTERNATIONAL ASTRONOMY DAY, MAY 1.

ARBOR DAY

For calendar makers and tree enthusiasts, Arbor Day causes problems because all states do not celebrate on the same day While most states observe Arbor Day in April, not all designate the same day, and some celebrate in March To end this confusion and promote the importance of trees, a coalition of sponsors has proposed a National Arbor Day on the last Friday in April, a date now observed by more than half the states Congress authorized such a day in 1991, but without continuing authority, so a permanent day is still being sought For more information, contact the Committee for National Arbor Day, 201-731-0840

Do not cut down the tree that gives you shade.

— Arabian proverb

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Use a soft cloth moistened with vinegar to remove salt water stains from leather boots and shoes, then polish.

EARTHWISE

American Forests (formerly known as the American Forestry Association) says there are at least 100 million locations right in our towns and cities suitable for trees (Maybe even around your house?) Planting those 100 million trees could reduce this country's carbon dioxide emissions by 18 million tons a year, saving American consumers $4 billion annually! For more information on planting trees, contact Global ReLeaf, P O Box 2000, Washington, DC 20013

GLAZED PEARS

OPINION

Energy Tax Would Hurt Farmers

President Clinton's proposed energy tax will hit farmers especially hard because it will raise production costs, cut farm prices and the make U.S. farmers less competitive in world markets, the American Farm Bureau Federation told the president last week.

The proposed tax will cost farmers an estimated $1 billion per year, about 2 percent of U.S. net farm income. Half the $1 billion hit would come from direct fuel costs; the other half would come from indirect costs resulting from price hikes for inputs like fertilizer and pesticides.

The president needs to remove the energy tax from his economic proposal because of its negative impact on efficiency, productivity and competitiveness.

Agricultural production is highly energy-dependent. The proposed BTU tax on the heat content of various fuels would result in tax increases of 7.5 cents per gallon for gasoline, 8.3 cents for diesel and 2.3 cents for propane. The new levies would affect all aspects of agricultural production, from running combines to heating barns and greenhouses and operating irrigation systems.

We believe this additional tax would prove to be especially detrimental to U.S. agricultural products in the highly competitive world market and, therefore, to farmers and ranchers.

In addition all rural residents, not just farmers and ranchers, will be hurt by the tax. The energy tax will disproportionately increase the cost of living for 65 million rural people who must drive further than urban and suburban residents to work, shop, get medical care and take children to school.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Be Patient

The recent rains have placed spring work behind schedule. This delay seems worse when we compare it to the early springs of the past several years.

We need to be patient. By working soils too wet we will be doing long-lasting damage that will reduce yields for many years.

Also, we still have plenty of time to plant corn and soybeans. The normal planting time for corn in Pennsylvania is May 5 to June 20 and soybeans is May 20 to June 30. Depending on the growing degree days we receive this summer, we still could have excellent yields.

The current rains are replenishing the subsoil moisture we need for the summer dry periods. So be patient and wait till you have the right conditions to plant.

Remember one of the lessons my grandfather taught me, "treat the soil right and the soil will treat you right."

To Look At Pastures

On many farms, pastures are one of the most underutilized crops. With minimal additional effort and expense, pastures could be made a lot more productive.

Chances are, you may accomplish this without having to tear up and reseed your present pasture. Furthermore, the best time to reseed is in late summer, not in the spring.

Start off by encouraging the pasture species that are already present by liming and fertilizing. Mow pastures to encourage growth and to control weeds. Limit the amount of time cows have access to the pasture.

Also, keep them off the pasture when the soil is wet. In late summer, evaluate the pasture and establish new species by interseeding or reseeding as necessary.

To Manage Barnyards

Jeff Stoltzfus, extension agent/nutrient management, reminds us that barnyards are very busy places on most farms.

Over the years many farmers have increased the number of livestock to remain profitable. However, the size of the barnyards often has not increased with the number of livestock.

Unfortunately, this increased livestock activity may cause water quality and animal health problems if not managed properly.

Barnyard areas may be improved by utilizing some or all of the following methods:

- Direct manure and runoff into a manure storage area
- Direct clean water away from the barnyard
- Use rain gutters to direct roof runoff away from barnyards
- Terraces upslope of the buildings may direct runoff around barnyards
- If water needs to leave the barnyard area, allow it to pass through a grass filter strip before it reaches a stream, road ditch, or other waterway.

Barnyards are often the most visible part of any farm. A well-managed barnyard will go a long way toward improving the image of farmers with our non-farm neighbors.

Farm Forum

Editor,

I am writing to urge all farmland owners to write to their legislators urging them to pass legislation to remove all designated wetlands from the property tax roles.

It is grossly unfair and unjust to place such severe limitations upon the use of wetlands as to render them useless to a landowner and still require that landowner to pay taxes on that wetland.

According to a study done in Dutchess County, N.Y., the owner of farmland already subsidizes the residential property owner.

Their study found that a farmland owner receives in municipal services 21 cents for each dollar in taxes he pays, while the owner of residential property receives $1.36 in services for each dollar of taxes collected.

A soon to be released study by Penn State University, done in Adams, Lebanon and Chester counties is expected to show quite similar results.

In a recent decision by U.S. Justice Anton Scalia, he wrote, "When ... a regulation that declares all economically productive or beneficial uses of land goes beyond what the relative background principals would dictate, compensation must be paid to sustain it." Such was the majority decision of the U.S. Supreme Court.

I am sure that most landowners understand that, given the present economic conditions, compensation in any form would be prohibitively costly. Even under normal economic conditions, this would not be possible.

However, to ask for property tax relief is neither too costly, nor is it unjust. If this land is to be untouched in its natural state and can not yield a fair return on investment, property tax relief is the only route to go.

Personally, I fail to see the great importance placed on wetlands by some enthusiasts. Certainly their benefit as an aquifer is rather nil, since usually such land is underlain with a dense, impervious clay layer which prohibits percolation. This requires the surface to dry by evaporation.

Suffice it to say that, for the purpose of charging underground water supplies, farmland, woodland and open land is a far better source.

Again, I urge every landowner, please write to your legislator. Urge tax relief for owners of wetlands.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

NEVER HUNGRY AGAIN
April 25, 1993

Background Scripture:
John 6.
Devotional Reading:
John 6: 22-29.

As I write, the 1993 Super Bowl is only a few hours away. By the time you read this, it will have become history. And I for one am tempted to say, "Thank God!".

I have always loved if not excelled at sports. When I was a junior in high school I was hired by the local daily newspaper to write a regular sports column and I partially worked my way through college and seminary writing sports. I was then and still am a sports fan and, more specifically, a Dallas Cowboys fan.

But this past week I have been tempted to say, Enough!: let's get this thing over with. It is, after all, just a game — a great game, perhaps, but still a game. On Monday, when the final score has been posted (in favor of the Cowboys, I hope!), there will be other headlines that will not have gone away by virtue of a Superbowl victory: there will still be war, famine and conflict.

THE SECOND COMING?

During these past few weeks the newspapers, radio and television have virtually identified the Superbowl with the Second Coming. It isn't. It wasn't. It never can be. Karl Marx defined religion as "the opiate of the people". He was wrong: in today's world sports, entertainment and material things are the opiate of the people. If one-fourth of the energy and attention given these last few weeks to the Superbowl had been devoted to solving some of the massive problems that face us, perhaps I wouldn't be feeling so frustrated.

The Bible is one long story of people looking to things to give them the peace and power that things — no matter how wonderful and beautiful — can never bestow. In the Old Testament it was the recurring fascination of Israel, first with idols and then with military hardware. Again and again, through his prophets, God called his people to find their hungers and thirsts assuaged by the intangible things of the spirit. But even when they seemed to hear the message, they often settled for some thing less — and eventually felt unfulfilled.

Jesus knew we have certain physical needs and in his model prayer, he taught us to pray, "Give us this day our daily bread". In John 6, when a multitude followed Jesus to the Sea of Galilee, he knew these people would have to be fed and the story of the feeding of the 5,000 is the meeting of that need. Getting, daily bread in those days was no small feat. Today, we'd probably sniff at a church luncheon of five barley loaves and few fish — and a local newspaper critic would probably give it a bad review, noting "the servings were small and the service was unprofessional!".

PERISHABLE FOOD

But Jesus is disturbed because people are focusing on the physical instead of spiritual dimensions. "Do not labor for the food which perishes, but for the food which endures to eternal life" (6:27). Even the manna, which was given to Israel in the desert, although it came from God, could not satisfy the true human hunger. "Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died... This is the bread which comes down from heaven, that a man may eat of it and not die. I am the living bread...".

Once again, some of them misunderstood him literally: "How can this man give us his flesh to eat?". Always looking for a material thing, they miss the spiritual reality. Nothing in this world brings us satisfaction or nourishment that lasts — not even the World Series and Super Bowls. We are meant to enjoy them but briefly. Only the bread which Christ offers us, Himself, can endure throughout this life and into eternity.

And now, if you'll excuse me, I've got to get ready for the Super Bowl.

While most lenders have barely scratched the surface in agriculture, we've gone a bit further.

Fact is, you can explain your needs to some bankers until you're blue in the face and chances are they still won't understand. Farm Credit loan officers, on the other hand, have been through the most comprehensive ag lending training program in the nation. And many have farm backgrounds themselves.

They can approve loans for just about any farm need from land to equipment. And since a committee isn't necessary for most decisions, loan approval is easy and fast.

Stop by and talk with your Farm Credit loan officer.

Butters' Farm To Represent This Year's Farm-City Day

C.J. HOUGHTALING
Tioga Co. Correspondent

MORRIS (Tioga County) — They hadn't been on a farm in thirty years. Perhaps the chance to relive part of their childhood was one of the reasons Dr. David Fox and his wife Vicki were excited about taking part in an exchange program set up by Sherri Elders of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office in Wellsboro. Another reason, to be sure, was it gave them a chance to see a personal side of their patients.

Fox is an optometrist and Vicki is his receptionist in Wellsboro. The farm they visited was the picturesque Silverlea, the home of Raymond and Peggy Butters and the site of the 1993 Farm-City Day to be held this July.

Elders brought the Farm-City Day program to Tioga County in 1991. The best public relations spokesperson for agriculture probably in the state, no doubt in the county, Elders is constantly bubbling over with enthusiasm about farming and has been known to drag unsuspecting city slickers out to farms to show them what it's all about.

Elders was in her usual form when she went to Dr. Fox for an eye examine. Farm-City Day was rapidly approaching, and she wanted to organize an exchange program in which someone from town would work at the Silverlea for a day and then one of the Butters (also patients of Fox) would work at a business in town for a day. Fox was fascinated. By the end of the examination, Elders made the offer he couldn't refuse. Vicki, being a real animal lover, asked to be a part of the exchange program, too.

"The Butters, like a lot of my patients, are farmers," said Fox. "I feel people, at least those of us who haven't grown up on farms, don't appreciate the role that family farms play in the economy." Fox realized that being a part of the exchange program would give him a chance to "walk in his patients boots."

In fact, boots were one of the things Elders recommended they get for their day on the farm. Barn boots, as every farmer knows, is one of the essentials of farming. At Silverlea, where the barn is free-stall, it's a must. ASCS office co-workers were happy to lend Elders the necessary items for David and Vicki.

Moments after arriving on the farm, the Foxes understood the importance of those boots. "It's totally different from what I remember as a child on my uncle's farm," said Vicki. Never having been in a free-stall barn before, she looked around in wide-eyed wonder as the grade holsteins congregated in groups or wandered around.

The barn, added to over the years since the farm was established in 1906, serves as an indoor pasture, with sections partitioned off for calves, heifers, milkers, and those about to freshen or be bred.

"We don't let the cows out in the winter," said Terry Butters, "and they won't go out in the summer, even when they're given the choice."

The feeding system, too, is different from what the Foxes were familiar with years ago. "I remember the cows had their own stanchions and feed was dumped in front of them," said Fox. While some farms still operate like that today, the Butters have installed three computerized feeding stanchions. Each cow wears a collar with a computer chip. As the cow steps into a stanchion, her chip is read and a portion of feed is automatically dumped for her consumption. Each cow can go into the stanchion to feed three times a day. After that, the computer refuses to give the cow more feed.

Inside the barn, Fox was given a shovel and instructed to clean out the pens while Terry jumped on a skid-steer loader and maneuvered the machine up and down the aisles, scraping as he went with efficient speed.

Vicki made her way to the maternity pen to watch a breeding take place. Sire Power technician John Zehr of Liberty explained the process, as well as the cow's cycle from being bred to freshening. The Butters use of patches on the cow's tail bone to detect when a cow's in heat was another technical wonder for the Foxes.

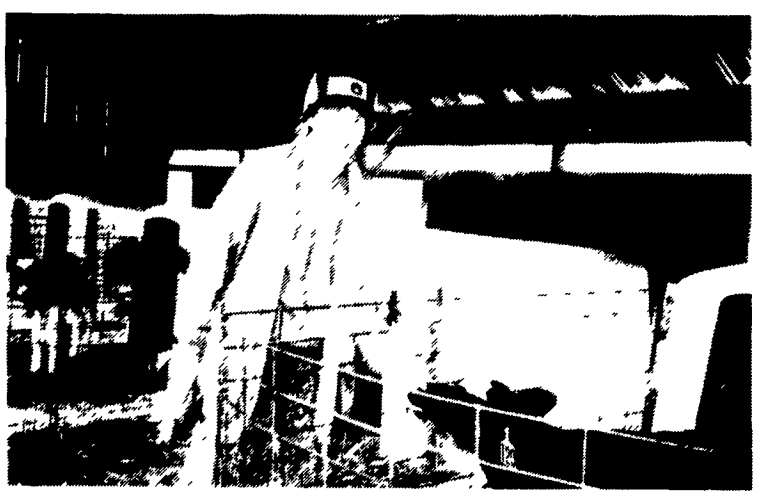
When it came time for milking, David and Vicki were led to the milking parlor, a double-six herringbone. As the first of 72 cows paraded in, the Foxes were instructed on how to apply the milkers.

"There are four?" asked Fox, as he counted the units and matched them to the teats. He was a bit surprised at the vaccuum pressure and the effort it took to slip them in place. Stepping back with a wide grin on his face, he watched the milk make its way along the tubing into the weighing jars in the center of the parlor.

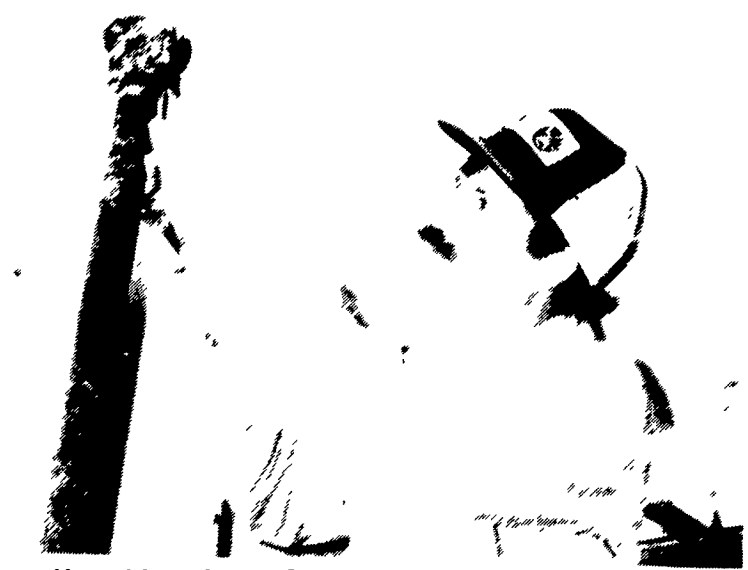
The work gave him a feeling of satisfaction. In regards to the exchange program, Fox said, "Being here has confirmed my thoughts on how much a farming family has to be dedicated. It requires a lot of team work and they have to be good businessmen. Farmers certainly have my respect."

For Vicki, the day was an education in economics, as well. "I was shocked to find out how much farmers actually earn in wages. Milk prices are so low, we need to make it worth their while."

Since her visit to the Butters at Silverlea, Vicki has joined Elders in promoting the dairy farmer. Recently, she relayed her experiences to a group known as the Wellsboro Business and Professional Women. Her ancedotes of the day's events, particularly the artificial insemination part, gave her audience a few chuckles, along with a new insight to the world of farming as it is today.



Her first "chore" was feeding the calves. Afterwards, Vicki Fox enjoyed a calf suckling her fingers, although they became raw up to her knuckles.



Upon his arrival at Silverlea, Dr. David Fox was handed a wrench. With it, he proceeded to help install a new ceiling in the milking parlor. The experience showed him first hand how much a "jack-of-all-trades" farmers had to be.

Representing Hess Mills, Jack and Gloria Hess and Ron and Cindy Spotts attended the Council meeting in Vancouver, Canada on March 25 through 28. This was the 34th annual meeting of dealers from across the United States who earned the honor based on sales growth during the previous year.

Special honors were given to Hess Mills for exceptional growth; Jack received the honors of vice president of the American region. Hess Mills achieved the highest growth in the region, which takes in the eastern portion of United States.

Purina Mills recognized 183 dealerships for their outstanding achievements. The program featured messages from Purina Mills leaders and ideas were shared to help dealers continue their growth in the future.

Jack Hess said, "Purina has a fantastic line of products that have assisted in our growth. Products like Ultimate EXT have made selling enjoyable because it works!"

A surprise sidelight of the meeting included an unexpected encounter with Mikhail Gorbachev, former leader of the Soviet Union, who happened to be staying at the Pan Pacific Hotel in Vancouver where the Purina Honor Council was meeting. In a friendly meeting in the lobby, Purina President Ed McMillan presented Mr. Gorbachev with a red and white checkerboard shirt.

Hess Mills is proud to serve its many customers in the Lancaster and Chester county markets. Jack Hess, pictured, and Ron Spotts say that they are committed to continuing to provide Hess Mills customers with outstanding service and new products and programs from Purina research that meet the optimum nutritional needs of their animals. Purina Mills will be celebrating its 100th anniversary in 1994.

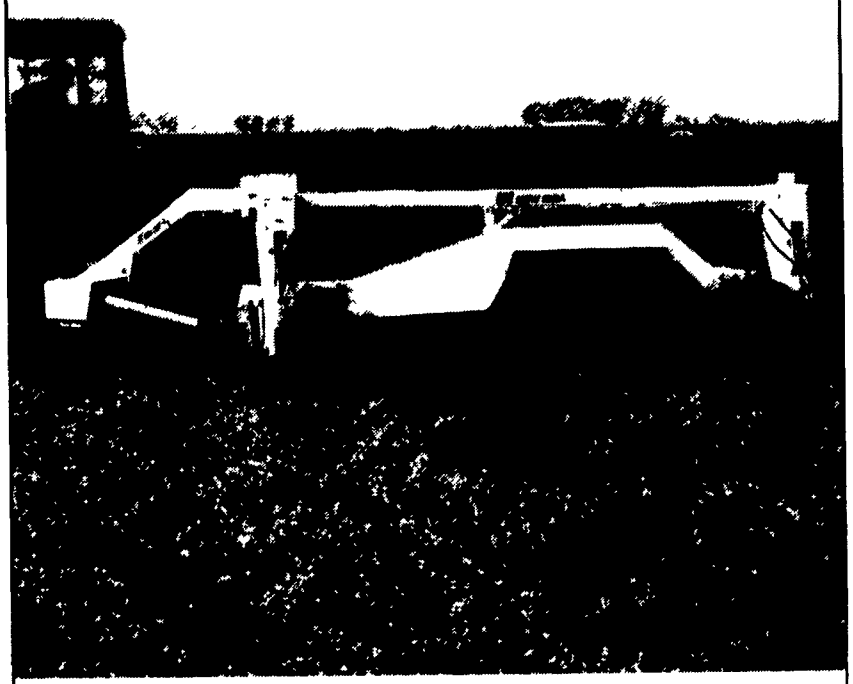
Cuts more than hay. Cuts time.



New Idea 5212 Disc Mower Conditioners cut a big 11'9" swath and condition with 9'6" intermeshing rolls. It's a wider version of our well-known 5209. With it, you cut and condition lots of hay...every trip. And that means you cut time.

Because the New Idea modular disc cutterbar design makes routine maintenance simple and, although unlikely, repairs a breeze; there's less downtime, too.

Best of all, you'll find our disc mower conditioners are just one segment of our hay equipment line. Others include round balers, disc mowers, sickle mowers and mower conditioners, rakes and hay handling equipment.

Penn State Alumni Honored

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Department of Dairy and Animal Science has chosen two alumnus for recognition. James E. Work has been chosen as the 1993 Distinguished Animal Science Alumnus and Charles C. Brosius has been chosen 1993 Distinguished Dairy Science Alumnus.

Work graduated from Penn State in Animal Husbandry in 1949. In addition to his keen interest in football and boxing as an undergraduate, Work was a member of the Block and Bridle Club and the 1948 meats and livestock judging teams. He served as Little International Show manager in 1947 and Block and Bridle president in 1948.

Work spent eight years as Pennsylvania Farm Show Commissioner, from 1956-64. He was recognized as a Pennsylvania Master Farmer in 1961 and became a member of the National Soil and Water Commission in 1964. He belongs to both county and state farmers associations, Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, and Pennsylvania Livestock Association. He is a newly elected director of the Penn State Stockmen's Club. A World War II veteran of the U.S. Navy, Work serves on the Advisory Board for the Penn State Fayette Campus.

Jim Work and his wife Joanne live in Uniontown, Pennsylvania, where he is a member of the Rotary Club. They own and operate a 1,200 acre farm, raising registered Angus and Chiaina cattle and Yorkshire hogs, in partnership with their daughter and two of their three sons. All of their children are graduates of Penn State University. They also own a retail and wholesale meat business.

Work is recognized for his dedication to and involvement in the agricultural industry.

Brosius graduated from Penn State in Dairy Production in 1952 and returned to Chester County where he and wife Jane rented a farm and began building their Guernsey herd. Brosius began as a dairyman, but eventually put down the milking claw in favor of a miner's headlamp, the mushroom grower's trademark.

Since winters at the dairy were slow, Brosius and his brother rented one double mushroom house from their father who was in the business. They made more money from that than they had from a year's dairying. When the elder Brosius decided to retire, Charles returned to the family farm, and the rest is history. He quickly established himself as a force in the Chester County mushroom industry, built additional state-of-the-art mushroom houses, and cooperated closely with Penn State in mushroom research.

About that time, foreign mushrooms began to threaten the U.S. market. To remain competitive, Brosius began marketing his mushrooms fresh instead of selling them to a cooperative for canning and processing. As business prospered, he purchased fresh mushrooms from other growers and expanded his packing company. To control the flow of mushrooms to commercial outlets, he eventually added a trucking arm to the business. Over 90 percent of the mushrooms he currently produces are sold through a broker to the fresh market. Packaged under the name Marlboro Mushrooms, they are sold in Baltimore, New York, Richmond, and Atlanta.

The old adage, "find a need a fill it," was the driving force behind the success of Charles Brosius, who believes there is more profit in marketing a product than there is in growing it. In response to buyers who need mushrooms daily, Sunday through Thursday, Marlboro Mushrooms are harvested in a manner contrary to the usual mass harvest. "If we don't have the mushrooms when the buyers want them," Brosius says, "they will try to fill in the gaps by buying from the competition."

Charles and Jane Brosius and their three sons, all Penn State graduates, form today's family cooperation, a multi-million dollar enterprise. Each is involved full-time in managing the farm operation and business. "We have been blessed with good luck, good health, good crops, and good advice," Brosius says.

As a student at Penn State, Brosius was manager of the Dairy Exposition, and was a member of the dairy cattle judging team, the Dairy Science Club, the Coaly Society, and several other honorary organizations.

In recent years, Brosius has become semi-retired and spends more time in a service role. He continues to be active in agricultural organizations and as a trustee of Penn State. A designated Pennsylvania Master Farmer, he has served as director for Agway, Inc., and president of the Mushroom Growers Co-op Association of Pennsylvania and of the Chester County Agricultural Extension Service. He has also served on the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Research Advisory Committee, as a 4-H club leader, and as coach of a dairy judging team. Among many other activities, he has chaired the Penn State Mushroom Industry Research Associates and served on the Penn State Mushroom Endowment Advisory Committee. He is a lifelong member of the Society of Friends.

Charles Brosius is honored for his efforts in — among other things — pioneering changes in an agricultural enterprise that was seriously threatened by foreign competition — efforts that have brought him remarkable success. Moreover, his contributions to Penn State have been many, and they continue to this day.

Dean Hood Reports State Budget Requests

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co) — In a report of the 1993-94 State Budget Requests from the College of Agricultural Science at Penn State, Dean Lamartine Hood told the Ag Advisory Council this week that since 1989, Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences has had to manage increasing costs with declining resources. To meet this challenge, the College has reduced the scope of its programs and the numbers of faculty and staff.

The College's 1992-93 state appropriation for extension and research, which accounts for 43% of its budget, was permanently reduced by $1.88 million. Federal appropriated funding, which provides 20% of College budget, but did not increase. In response to these declining resources, a hiring freeze has been implemented. In addition, the College Future Committee has defined a series of program eliminations/modifications/reductions designed to bring programs in balance with resources. Extension, resident education and especially research programs are all being adjusted to meet available resources.

In addition to the loss of permanent state support, the College has been forced to adjust to one-time reductions that have totaled $2.77 million during the period 1989-1993.

The 1993-94 state budget request is designed to restore the permanent funding cuts of 1992-93 in the extension and research line items and to cover unavoidable program cost increases. Without this restoration, the College will be forced to further reduce programs and personnel.

Hood presented the following exhibit:

	1991-92	1992-93	1993-94
	Appropriations		Penn State Request	Governor's Recommendation	Line Item Number
Extension	$20,505,000	$19,787,000	$21,494,000	$19,787,000(+0 0%)	#3019
Research	19,518,000	18,352,000	20,436,000	17,869,000(-2 5%)	#3013

Maryland Holstein Breeders List 20 Years Of Premier Winners

TIMONIUM, Md.—Maryland Holstein breeders this week listed the Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor winners for the last 20 years at their State Holstein Show.

As was reported last week, the Joseph Schwartzbeck family won both awards at the recent 1993 show. It was the first time this family won both awards at the show. However, it was not, as reported (sorry about that), the first time one family or farm won both awards in the same year. As you can see from the following list, one family or farm has taken both awards many times.

The winners over the years are as follows:

1993-Joseph Schwartzbeck Family, both; 1992-1991-1990, My Ladys Manor Farm, both; 1989, Coldsprings Farm, Premier Breeder, Hills-Hope Farm, Premier Exhibitor; 1988-1987-1986, Coldsprings Farm, both; 1985, Coldsprings Farm/Kingstead Farms, tie for Premier Breeder, Coldsprings Farm, Premier Exhibitor.

1984, Kingstead Farms, Premier Breeder, both; 1983 Gaywinds Farm, Premier Breeder, Elizabeth Gillet, Premier Exhibitor; 1982-1981-1980-1979-1978-1977-1976-1975, Kingstead Farms, both; 1974, Rinehart Farms, both; and 1973, Kingstead Farms, both.

WORK WATCH

The Work Watch Is Back!

In the mid-1980's we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. They needed a watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps, and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard, and in the woods. Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned. Now, due to the past success and the present need, we are again offering the work watch through Lancaster Farming.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. Finally, the BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your work watch stops running within FIVE YEARS of the date of purchase, the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge. This is one of the longest warranties in the watch industry. The manufacturer's confidence in this watch means that you can have confidence in its durability and can know that this is the only work watch you will need to buy for the next five years.

Congressman Ridge Begins Campaign For Governor

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)-Congressman Tom Ridge, Republican candidate for governor, started early for the 1994 elections by meeting with supporters on the Lancaster Court House steps Monday. While Ridge did not mention agriculture in his prepared speech, he told Lancaster Farming privately that he knows agriculture is Pennsylvania's number one industry, and he said that if you are in agriculture, the profitability of your business is of highest priority.

"I know how important it is for government to work shoulder to shoulder with those who harvest the land and contribute to the quality of life, not only in rural communities but around Pennsylvania," Ridge said. "It would seem to me to be the highest priority to get the folks in Harrisburg to work with me to improve the relationship between state government and the ag community and the agribusiness community.

"We need to work for research on a balanced environmental policy that seems to be tilted against the farmer and the ag community. I have always looked to the point that the stewards of our environment are those who rely on the environment for their livelihood. These are the men and women in agriculture.

"The whole notion that bureaucrats take to the farming community that somehow they are adverse to the long term interest to preserve the environment, gets them (bureaucrats) off on the wrong foot. Nationally, I have tried to bring some balance on some wetlands legislation. We need wetlands, but we also need to understand that private property means more in this country than it does in any other nation in the world.

"Wetlands are an environmental issue, yes, but 80 to 85 percent of wetlands are on private property and the Constitution says there shall be no public taking of private property unless there is just compensation. So the approach I bring to the issue of environment and agriculture is that we need an endless search to bring some balance to it," he said.

Ridge represents Erie and its surrounding communities in the U.S. House of Representatives. He was born in Pittsburgh Steel Valley community of Munhall in 1945. He is currently serving his sixth two-year term in the U. S. House but has announced he will not seek reelection to this post. Ridge and his wife Michele have two young children, Lesley, age 6 and Tommy, age 5.

Paul Witter Is Named State Young Farmer Winner

BETH MILLER
Franklin Co. Correspondent

SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Paul Witter is probably one of the most busy farmers around this area.

He fills his time working on two farms, which would be enough to tire anyone out. But then, Witter takes on a variety of projects to help his local community.

Still, no matter how busy he gets, Witter always keeps one philosophy in mind. "I try to keep it simple," he said.

His philosophy must work because Witter has been chosen as the state winner of the Young Farmer Award, given by the state Young Farmers Association in the Over-30 Division of its membership.

The award was given to Witter for his talent at farming as well as his involvement in his community.

According to the Y.F. Association, Witter deserves the award because he won it the hard way, by working for it in the barn and in the fields and by trying new methods to make his farming more profitable.

Witter owns two farms of 160 acres and farms a total of 260 acres. He grows wheat, corn, barley, alfalfa and soy beans.

One of the farms he bought from his grandfather, who still lives on the land. His grandfather bought that farm in Southampton Township in the 1930s.

Witter knew what he was doing right from the start because he was born and raised on a farm. His father still is in farming as well.

Witter struck out on his own in farming in 1981. He bought his grandfather's farm in 1988. He also has four brothers and all of them are involved in farming either full or part time.

Witter himself has 55 milk cows — milk grade and registered animals of all breeds. He said he doesn't raise his own heifers — that is part of his "keep it simple" philosophy. Also, he said, that method saves money.

"I buy my replacement cows when the market is right," he said.

Witter said he raises a cash crop of wheat and corn. He said he sells some hay and straw also.

Some of the feed he gives his animals is liquid whey, a byproduct of the cheese making process at the nearby Raskas cheese plant in Shippensburg. Raskas provides the whey to local farmers on sort of a lottery basis. Witter said he was quick to become one of the people on that list.

As a sideline of sorts, Witter raises hogs over the winter.

However, farming only takes up part of Witter's busy life.

He is a regular helper at the always busy Shippensburg Fair. He played an important role in getting a manure handling ordinance passed in Southampton Township. Right now he is running for township supervisor.

If that isn't enough, Witter also has been an agricultural advisor for students in the Shippensburg Area School District.

Witter is busy helping out when the snow falls as well since he runs one of the snow plows for his township.

In addition to all the good works he has done locally, Witter now has an opportunity to make his mark on yet another continent — South America.

His family — his wife, Carla, and his daughters, Nancy and Paula — are hosting an exchange student from Brazil, Laiz Brito. The girl lives on a ranch in her native land, so she is interested in farming United States-style.

Laiz came to the Witter's home in January for a six-month stay as part of a program run by the American Institute of Foreign Studies.

Paul Witter climbs aboard his tractor for a day of work on his farm.

Heifers To Romania: Glorifying God, Not Man

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — One of the largest shipments of cattle possible out of the Middletown airport took place Thursday afternoon as about 100 dairy cattle heifers were loaded onto a DC8 for transport to Romania, as part of humanitarian aid by Christian Aid Ministries.

The dairy cattle are headed for a model farm that was constructed in Romania by the group as an example of how those people, trying to recover from the loss of education and independence imposed by the former Soviet Union, can survive and build a stable economy.

According to Donald Evans, who is assistant dean of the Penn State University College of Agricultural Sciences and assistant director of the PSU Cooperative Extension, the project is about more than sending cattle to struggling people.

"It's not only sending cattle and information," he said. "We're exporting the concept of family farming in Pennsylvania."

The project was part of the ongoing efforts of the Christian Aid Ministries, based out of Berlin, Ohio, according to Evans. He explained that the ministries, which is largely supported by Amish and Mennonite people in the area, had started helping out the Romanians several years ago and that the donated heifers are headed toward the farm where Ben Lapp, of Lancaster County has been living with his wife and six children for about a year.

Lapp went over to set up the model farm and has been working through interpreters to teach Romanians about modern family farming.

The farm was built in the fashion of a typical Pennsylvania dairy farm Evans said. And during the time that the ministries has been involved, so has the Penn State University Extension.

Penn State became involved because it was given a mission by the federal government to help out with Poland and developing counties. Evans said it is basically the extension services which these other countries are seeking to establish.

Evans said that under the former government rule in the former Soviet Union, information was controlled by the government and not made available to the rank and file citizen or laborer.

Evans said while it may seem ironic, that the fact that a social program — extension service — is considered one of the first programs to help wean the former socialist Communist Party ruled people to independent, free-market democracy, education is the key to democracy.

According to Evans, the PSU Extension Service has been helping Poland set up an extension service for some time and continues to do so. He said that the United States is the only nation in the world with such a support system.

However, Evans said that Thomas Jefferson said that a democracy was dependent on an educated citizenry. "Democracy is very fragile and can disappear from generation to generation," Evans said, adding that education is the only way to preserve it.

The Christian Aid Ministries program is ideal, Evans said, as a way of actually helping the people of the former Soviet Union achieve a better life.

Going along to Romania with the shipment of cattle was Dr. David Marshal, a Coatesville area veterinarian who said he got involved with the project through some of his clients.

"It was easy to get involved," the veterinarian said. "Besides, I know and like Ben (Lapp). So this is also a chance for me to visit."

Marshal said he is going to stay with the cattle for two weeks and hand carry shipping documents so he can be on site in case any of the paperwork is challanged in Romania.

Ken Byler, a Lancaster County coordinator of the project, said that the project was not about the fact that people were doing anything special.

At least 100 people turned out at the Middletown farm of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, which donated use of the facility for the cause. But Byler said that members of the ministry did not want recognition for helping out fellow mankind.

"This is about glorifying God," he said, "not about glorifying man," Byler said.

From the left, Chuck Russow, a USDA veterinarian, discusses handling paperwork with David Marshal, a Coatesville-area vet going along with the 100 dairy cattle heifers being sent to Romania, Don Evans, from Penn State Extension, and Maher Rizk, also a USDA veterinarian. Russow has worked with the Holstein Association for more than 11 years in making international shipments of cattle out of the Middletown facility and was lending his expertise.

These are part of the hundred dairy cattle heifers which were donated and shipped to Romania by the Christian Aid Ministries. Unusual winter-like weather coats the cattle and men loading cattle.

District Proclaims Stewardship Week

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The board of directors of the Lancaster County Conservation District have proclaimed April 25 - May 2 as Soil and Water Stewardship Week.

This year's theme "Hands on Healing," emphasizes that the greatest influence on the environment comes from individuals doing ordinary thoughtful tasks in their neighborhoods. Churches, local schools, and groups concerned with conservation in the county will take a look at what individuals can do to make a difference with the environment.

The Lancaster County Conservation District has provided materials to more than 30 groups in the county in preparation for the observance. Bookmarks, activity booklets, and other educational materials list 10 ways a person can act to conserve the natural resources we have here on our earth. Conservation districts, which work throughout the year on soil and water conservation measures, are encouraging individual responsibility to care for the natural resources. Nationwide, nearly 3,000 conservation districts work together with the National Association of Conservation Districts to sponsor the annual week-long observance.

Mowrer likes to point out that there are millions of people who know how to relate to the needs of nature — the farmers who work the soil, the fishermen who follow the streams, and the hunters who value the woods.

A 14-minute video entitled "Hands of Healing" is available on loan from the Lancaster County Conservation District by calling the office at (717) 299-5361. Any group interested in organizing activities for next years observance and receiving free materials can request to be put on the mailing list at the district office.

PennWest Hires Field Rep

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — Darrel L. Schweitzer, Spartansburg, has recently been hired as a field representative for Penn West Farm Credit. He is serving farmer members from the Union City office.

Schweitzer has an extensive farm background, having been in the dairy business for 20 years. He is the owner/operator of a 40-cow registered dairy herd on a 272-acre farm in the Spartansburg area.

Grange Testifies On Milk Pricing

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange seeks a change in the Milk Marketing Act to permit the use of statistics to help stabilize prices paid to producers.

That was the message delivered Wednesday by State Grange during testimony before the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board. Robert Pardoe, a dairy farmer from Northumberland County and chairman of the dairy committee for the Pennsylvania State Grange, told the board the wide variation in Class I prices lead to fluctuating profits.

"Class I sales seem to vary very little throughout the year," Pardoe said. "Yet the farm price of Class I varied $1.38 per hundredweight in the last 12 months. Under our present pricing system, when the Minnesota-Wisconsin price declines, it pulls the Class I price down even though sales remain the same."

Pardoe said Grange policy calls for the use of statistics from the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service as a base for quarterly updating of milk prices without holding hearings as required under the current Milk Marketing Act. The Grange also seeks the establishment of a formula similar to the one developed by Dr. Stephen Ford of Penn State University.

"By using these statistics for a cost of production plus a return for labor and management, the difference between that figure and the market price could be covered by an over-order price," Pardoe told the board during the meeting held at the Farm Show Complex. "A controlling factor can be achieved with a floor of 40 cents and a cap of $1.35 per hundredweight. I believe such a formula could bring some stability to milk pricing for farmers."

Editor,

I am a dairy farmer, not an opponent of animal agriculture. Many of the methods of medicine are the result of using animals first.

However, I have a real concern in using growth hormone (BST) on dairy cows.

"All milk contains BST and there is no test to tell if the BST in any milk comes from nature or an injection." This is true today.

A few years ago, an animal medicine salesman was pushing sulfa drugs for use on cows. It was printed on the bottle that it was not to be used on animals (destined) for milking or slaughter.

(The salesman) said there was no way to test for sulfa, but they learned how, and a lot of farmers were in trouble.

It is also true that our bodies produce cholesterol. They have learned that there is a good form of cholesterol and a bad form.

Is there a bad form of BST no one knows?

It will not put anyone out of business to ban the use of BST, but the scare tactics put out by the Pure Food Campaign could.

Look at what happened to the apple growers when the use of Alar was blown out of proportion. The apple growers lost millions of dollars.

The grape growers in South America were ruined by scare tactics. The same thing happened to mushroom growers, cranberry growers, and last summer to cantaloupe growers.

I can not see any reason to set ourselves up for the same situation.

If milk were in short supply it would be different, but with Class I milk use (which provides the highest gate price) currently comprising less than 50 percent, what would the percentage be if all milk production increased 15- to 20-percent?

What would that do to the price of milk?

Albert Bartels

Wilkinson Chairs PMMB

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Robert Casey recently appointed Leon H. Wilkinson, of Landenberg, as chairman fo the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board.

Wilkinson, a retired dairyman, has been serving as a member of the board since 1986. He replaces Donald E. Lanius, who served as chairman since May 1991.

According to PMMB Secretary O. Frank DeGarcia, the governor thanked Lanius, who is continuing to serve as a member, for his service as chairman.

Not Many BST Protesters Show For Pure Food Campaign

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

OAK BROOK, Ill. — Repeated announcements by spokesmen for anti-beef, anti-biotechnology crusader Jeremy Rifkin that at least 20,000 followers would stage a massive leaflet-distribution protest at more than a third of the McDonald's Restaurants in North America turned out to be overstated.

While those spokespeople in Rifkin's Washington, D.C. headquarters did not return phone calls inquiring about the success of the Rifkin-directed leaflet distribution effort, a researcher for McDonald's headquarters in Oak Brook, Ill., said Thursday that, while not all information was yet in from the field, there was little evidence of a protest at its franchises.

Rikin's directors of Beyond Beef Campaign and Pure Food Campaign had stated for weeks that up to 20,000 supporters would protest against the Food and Drug Administration's expected approval of injectable bovine somatotropin (BST) by handing out leaflets at more than 3,000 McDonald's Restaurants on April 17.

Although Ronnie Cummings, Rifkin's director of Beyond Beef Campaign, and Ted Howard, director of the Pure Food Campaign, said the protest was definitely going to happen, spokesmen for McDonald's said leaflets were handed out at much fewer than 1,000 of McDonald's restaurants.

The credibility of Rifkin's groups may be an illusion. The groups have never received any support from credible, recognized experts for their positions, and the "facts" the group have been including in "news releases," have been consistently proven to be over-stated, or misstated.

Nevertheless, Rifkin has apparently convinced some dairy processors that he has the ability to convince consumers that BST presents a danger to their health.

According to Rifkin's spokespeople, if restaurants and processors don't sign on as taking Rifkin's position, then those businesses will be listed as places to avoid.

The tactics have forced businesses to decide how much marketing risk to assess to Rifkin's threats.

The leaflets that were to be distributed to "a-million" consumers April 17, contained warnings that consumers should be concerned about "artificial hormones" in milk and meat and to call a 900- telephone number to get the names of "safe" places to eat.

Earlier last week, a spokesperson for McDonald's Corporation headquarters had dismissed protest threats by Rifkin's Pure Food Campaign as a gimmick by Rifkin to sell his anti-beef book and promote himself.

The announcement of the protest initially was made March 31 in statements distributed to media during a Food and Drug Administration (FDA) hearing on bovine somatotropin (BST).

Pure Food Campaign, which describes itself as "an international boycott of genetically engineered foods," joined forces with Beyond Beef Campaign, Rifkin's other non-profit, fund-raising "awareness" organization, which has had a program against McDonald's called, "Adopt-a-McDonald's," as a way to protest the consumption of meat and milk.

While one of Rifkin's groups calls for not eating meat, the other seeks to ban the consumption of "BGH-milk and meat," which, by definition, is all bovine milk and meat.

According to a newsletter from the National Milk Producers Federation, the BST issue is gaining attention from top White House officials and there is speculation that another hearing may be held by the Food and Drug Administration on BST — this one concerning the request by the anti-biotechnologists to ensure that any milk or meat derived from cattle injected with supplemental BST be labeled as such.

Since there is no difference in milk or meat from treated and untreated cattle, the labels would be meaningless, according to a number of experts.

Also, according to NMPF CEO Jim Barr, "We support the right of consumers to have meaningful information about the foods they consume, but labeling a product that is the same as it has always been serves no one. Further, producers of products that have been subjected to food scare campaigns have told us that labeling leads to a decrease in sales, not an increase, as labeling for the sake of labeling proponents claim."

FARM MANAGEMENT

FARM LABOR TIPS

Alan Strock
Farm Management
Agent

With spring planting season upon us, labor is a high priority, especially if you need additional help.

Farm work is often described as dirty, dangerous, and monotonous, bringing with it long days for low pay. It doesn't have to be so if managed properly.

No Perfect Job

No job is perfect, but better management can improve any job. National surveys reveals Supreme Court justices have the highest respect of the general public. But even their job has many disadvantages, such as long hours, a demanding dress code (including wearing a robe), stress, and, besides, they are cooped up inside all day.

Right Person For The Right Job

When a farmer is looking for that right new employee to add to his or her business, the farmer must emphasize the advantages of the job that they will be providing. The farmer must also look for the person that has the skills that complement and enhance his or her own as well as meeting the needs of the farm operation.

Farm Work Advantages

Farm labor does indeed have many advantages:

- Employees often feel close to God, nature, and other living things.
- Employees get to spend time outside in spring, summer, and fall in an aesthetically pleasing atmosphere.
- Farm employees often have a feeling of worthiness from knowing one's labor is providing affordable, wholesome food for the world.
- Farm work provides a wide diversity of physical and mental activities, so one doesn't get bored. Usually an employee has the satisfaction of looking at the end of the day and seeing that many jobs got done.
- The periodic rigorous physical labor tends to keep employees physically fit so they don't have to join the expensive local health club.
- Many jobs on the farm are done independently, so employees develop a sense of independence, thus expressing their personal creativity.
- Many opportunities are provided on the farm for the self-starter.
- Farm work will provide a flexible schedule and a variety of assignments.
- Employees' problem-solving skills will surely be enhanced by the frequent challenges that the weather, markets, and even their boss will create.
- The informality of dress allows employees to feel more comfortable and clothing doesn't take a big bite out of the family budget.
- Employees don't normally have to fight a traffic jam to get to work.
- Farming usually provides the opportunity for family members to work and play together.
- Farm employees often receive excellent fringe benefits such as a house and utilities rent-free, fresh milk and meat, and even hunting and fishing privileges from their employer.
- Farming can frequently provide a competitive salary for the skilled employee.
- Most times family members will get the chance to advance and get ownership of the business.

Farm Work Disadvantages

Just like any other job, farm work can have some disadvantages:

- Employees must at times work outside in unpleasant weather.
- Employees sometimes work long hours for below-market wages.
- Frequently, employees will have minimal chance of advancement.
- Farming can be danger-filled from poorly maintained equipment, dirt, dust, gases, and odors. Without proper protection, health can suffer.
- Certain times of the year employees won't be allowed to take vacation or other time off.
- Employees frequently have substandard benefits, including health insurance, paid vacation or sick time, life insurance, and/or disability coverage.
- Farm work is often hard, vigorous, demanding work.
- Employees usually don't have a well-defined job description and wonder what the boss really wants.
- Many tasks must be done daily and get monotonous. Frequently one may feel the job will never get done.
- Farm work is frequently considered not prestigious.
- Employers often practice nepotism and will advance family members over deserving employees.
- The usually small work force will provide limited social interaction during the long work day.

A few of the listed disadvantages the farmer/employer can do little to improve, but the vast majority can be changed by the management skills of the farmer

Make It Better

Farmers can provide:

- Adequate clothing for employees to wear in miserable whether so the employees are at least as comfortable as possible
- Dust masks, goggles, coveralls, boots, and keep farm machinery properly maintained to keep the farm as safe as possible.
- A shower and clothes changing room so that employees don't have to wear dirty smelly clothes home and smell up their vehicle.
- A job for multiple part-time employees so that no employee is overworked and feels taken advantage of.
- A variety of jobs for each employee if he or she desires variety.

Change The Image

Farmers can change the nonglamorous image of farm jobs by providing uniforms with the employee's name and farm name on and by creating job descriptions and job titles that give prestige to the job. Farmers can send employees to meetings and show that they care about the personal growth of their employees.

Farmers can also provide tickets to a professional or local sports event or other entertainment events that would be the envy of any employee, such as a Penn State football game.

Employing the right person for the right job will make your job as the manager much easier. When hiring an employee, list the personality traits and job skills that the position demands and match that list to the best job candidate.

Find that person that sees the many advantages of the job you are providing and doesn't mind the job's minor disadvantages.

20 Years Of Premier Winners

TIMONIUM, Md.—Maryland Holstein breeders this week listed the Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor winners for the last 20 years at their State Holstein Show.

As was reported last week, the Joseph Schwartzbeck family won both awards at the recent 1993 show. It was the first time this family won both awards at the show. However, it was not, as reported (sorry about that), the first time one family or farm won both awards in the same year. As you can see from the following list, one family or farm has taken both awards many times.

The winners over the years are as follows:

1993-Joseph Schwartzbeck Family, both; 1992-1991-1990, My Ladys Manor Farm, both; 1989, Coldsprings Farm, Premier Breeder, Hills-Hope Farm, Premier Exhibitor; 1988-1987-1986, Coldsprings Farm, both; 1985, Coldsprings Farm/Kingstead Farms, tie for Premier Breeder, Coldsprings Farm, Premier Exhibitor.

1984, Kingstead Farms, Premier Breeder, both; 1983 Gaywinds Farm, Premier Breeder, Elizabeth Gillet, Premier Exhibitor; 1982-1981-1980-1979-1978-1977-1976-1975, Kingstead Farms, both; 1974, Rinehart Farms, both; and 1973, Kingstead Farms, both.

mind is no problem for Wolfskill because, ultimately, soil and water conservation translates into better production and a more efficient operation, he said.

Wolfskill's continuous stewardship of the land has won the admiration of the Soil Conservation Service, which oversees soil conservation in the county.

"He wants to keep soil on the field," said David G. Younker, a technician with SCS. "He's a good manager and wants to have the best production he can."

Making contour strips is not necessarily more work for a farmer, Younker said. Although some of the plans can get complicated, farmers can realize fuel savings because running a tractor along the level in contour strips is easier on it than going up and down hills.

But it's not just containing the soil that the SCS is interested in. The SCS is also trying to maintain water quality by preventing soils containing manure into the water table, Younker said.

Younker doesn't disparage planting crops in big, square fields. They can be planted with a no-till method to retain the soil, then rotated with a hay crop, he said.

But Younker noted that all farmers who receive federal aid will be required by 1995 to file soil conservation plans. Conservation farming assistance is readily available from the SCS.

Wolfskill not only practices conservation methods on his farms, he also serves the district as a volunteer. He is a farmer-director of the district and serves as treasurer.

He belongs to the Berks County and Pennsylvania Farmers associations.

Last year, he was nominated by several county agencies for the "Good Earth Award" and placed second in this honor for the state.

Cleaning barn stalls is the order of the day since the ground is still to wet to plant. "We would have had oats in by now," he said.

land for the land, livestock and the environment.

Rodgers is a well known Ayrshire cattle breeder, utilizing pasture and alfalfa as the forage base for his dairy herd. Additionally, he has been featured in various national farm publications, including HOARD'S DAIRYMAN and FARM JOURNAL. He is a past president of the Penn State Ag Advisory Council and has served on the United States Dairy Research Center's Advisory Committee in Madison, Wisconsin.

Rodgers is the past president of the Rotary Club of Lewistown, Pennsylvania, a certified Dale Carnegie instructor, and is a regional director of the Mellon Bank. Other activities include giving numerous speeches to many diverse groups in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Sweden, New Zealand and Australia.

Some of the land he currently farms has been in his family since 1755, received in a warrant from John, Thomas and Richard Penn, son and grandsons of William Penn. His 5 children and 7 grandchildren are the 9th and 10th generations respectively to be enjoying the bounty of this property nestled in the Kishacoquillas Valley in Mifflin County, Pennsylvania.

Alfred State Takes N.Y. Dairy Bowl Title

ALFRED, N.Y. — The dairy judging team from Alfred State College of Technology took first place at the annual New York Junior Holstein Association competition April 3 at the NYS fairgrounds in Syracuse.

The team, coached by faculty member Matt Stewart of the college's Agriculture and Horticulture Department, bested teams from State University of New York at Morrisville, State University of New York at Cobleskill, and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Five Alfred State students placed amont the top 10 individuals in the competition.

The students and their rankings were, Margaret Briza, Woodside (Queens Co.), third overall; Daphne R. Thies, DeWittville, fourth; Robin S. Thomas, Troy, PA, fifth; Michael Calhoun, Dayton, PA, sixth; and Richard W. Lyness III, Piffard, ninth.

Briza, Calhoun, and Lyness all are majoring in animal science at Alfred State College. Thies is a general agriculture major, and Thomas is majoring in agricultural business.

Other members of the team are: Timothy K. Elsbree, Troy; Jeffrey W. Gourley, Sugar Grove; Katherine A. Lunde, Apalachin, N.Y.; Colleen M. Palmer, Holland; Robert S. Parnell Jr., Piffard, N.Y.; Randall K. Winkler, North Rose.

All six are naimal science majors at Alfred State.

In March, the college's dairy judging team traveled to State college, to compete against 25 students from Pennsylvania State University.

This event served as an informal preparation for future competition, and "valuable experience was gained," Alfred State faculty note.

Two Alfred State students — Gourley and Elsbree — placed in the top 10 in the non-team meet with Penn State.

Alfred State College hopes to send a five-member team with Coach Stewart to compete against two-year colleges at the NACTA (National Association of Colleges and Teachers in Agriculture) competition in Kansas, April 24-26.

ADC Instructs Producers

tance due to the . . . I guess, unknown."

Hand said that while the groups such as Jeremy Rifkin's, which are conducting scare campaigns, are not helping to bring about a wide rational understanding of BST, the perception by the public is ultimately what drives retail sales.

"As far as we're concerned, (the BST-fear propoganda) is a misrepresentation, but at least perception is reality and we have to deal with the reality that consumers were motivated in a negative way to resist a product that contained the so-called supplemental BST.

"We also felt that this would be a short time thing, but a major resistance in the milk supply has severe negative impacts on farmers — even if short term.

"You don't get it back," Hand said about opportunities to sell milk. "If you don't sell it today, it's gone."

Hand said that under the circumstances, calling for the moratorium was the only thing the cooperative could do right now, in response to the request from a major buyer of milk.

"Given that entire reaction and feeling and desire of . . . milk buyers and customers, a wait and see period would be better at this time."

Hand said that ADC intends to keep the policy until the threat of lost sales is gone.

"There is no time limit. I guess we're going by the old adage, 'Be not the first by whom the new is tried, nor yet the last to lay the old aside.'"

Hand said that the cooperative has a duty first to its members, BST users or not.

"We legally feel we have the responsibility to market the milk of our members. We do have customers, who at least at this point, don't insist on a 'BST-free' supply," he said about the possibility of marketing some cooperative milk that may eventually come from cows treated with supplemental BST.

For the time being, however, the cooperative is publicly staying clear of endorsing BST. "If we tell a customer that our producers aren't using BST, we owe them that. On the other hand, if it is legal, we are going to use all the persuasive tools to introduce in an orderly way the new technology," he said.

The cooperative-wide moratorium is a better way to deal with the issue, according to Hand, because it is unified.

"This is one of the steps to have an area-wide approach to BST, as opposed to having each co-op doing its own thing."

NO PEEL BARN PAINTING

Barns in Lancaster & Surrounding Counties Are Ruined By Overcoating

Resurfacing Is The Remedy

a) Resurface by waterblasting using your pressure washer with the new dirt chaser gun.
b) Into this resurfaced wood we first coat with a new stain paint for deep penetration.
c) Second coat penetrates first coat. Both coats are brushed with the finest bristles to control film thickness.
d) The thin film allows moisture to breathe through, and will not peel, because it is in the wood giving it a double life.
e) Starting today we go back to methods used in a period of time when there was no peeling.

This gourd hat took a second prize for Ruth Sweitzer at a Gourd Society Show.

Ruth displays one of her many hanging planters styled from gourds. Someday, she would like to open a gourd museum.

Gourds keep Ruth Sweitzer much too busy for a rocking chair. Large ones she grows include the dipper type and a bushel type perfect for designs like a cat house and the basket styled by another gourd enthusiast.

Out Of Your Gourd

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

DOVER (York Co.) — With the advent of the planting season, gardeners are tuning their tillers, honing their hoe blades, and sowing onions, carrots and peas.

In the spirit of trial and adventure, many gardeners sample new variety introductions and perhaps a new species or two each season. It was this quest for something a little different that started York County gardener Ruth Sweitzer off into her gourd venture.

Ruth Sweitzer, Admire Road, was reading a Burpee seed catalog in bed one January night 18 years ago when she ran across the firm's introduction of "lagenaria" gourd seed. Lagenaria are not the small, colorful, ornamental gourds popular for fall decorating, but large gourds historically used by cultures around the world to make all sorts of practical storage containers.

"I am absolutely fascinated with these gourds," says the Dover gardener now often referred to locally as "The Gourd Lady." Gourds have become a focal point of Ruth Sweitzer's life, filling not only her garden and her house but a large part of her time as well.

"After growing them, giving them away, for three or four years....well, the Lord guides you if you listen," Ruth believes. "I heard a television show one day that featured two women from Cleveland, Georgia, who were doing things with gourds."

Ruth Sweitzer, shortly thereafter, drove south to Cleveland, Georgia, and located the two gourd enthusiasts. Their knowledge, encouragement, suggestions for growing and creative use of gourds further propelled her interest and skills. She picked up tips on small, specialized tools for working with gourds, including the use of keyhole saws for cutting and carving the hard shells of the lagenaria species.

Now, one can glance in any direction in Ruth Sweitzer's tastefully decorated Dover farmhouse and see a gourd — or more likely, several gourds.

"You can make anything from a gourd," says Ruth matter-of-factly. A tour of her cozy home confirms it.

For starter ideas, nearly every window boasts a hanging plant — in a hanging gourd planter. Attractive dried arrangements incorporate unusually-shaped gourds as both base container and a major part of the design line. Large bushel gourds fashioned into bowls and baskets serve as both ornamentals and holders of everything from magazines to Easter decorations.

One of the most dramatic and useful creations is a full-length wired and working floor lamp, created from a long, straight-necked dipper gourd. Even the cat has a house carved from — what else? — a bushel gourd.

Songbirds around the Sweitzer farm also benefit from gourd birdfeeders and a favorite creation of Ruth's, wren houses.

Ruth fashions wren houses from both birdhouse gourds and dipper gourds grown on the ground. By allowing some dipper gourds to grow on the ground, rather than on an arbor or trellis, the long necks curl and curve around the small gourd body, providing perfect perching spots — sort of porches — for wrens using the houses.

Sanding gourds creates a very fine dust which can cause health irritations to some hobbyists if inhaled over long periods of time. In her basement workshop, between piles of cured gourds for future projects, Ruth has installed an air-cleaning system which she activates while sanding or spray-sealing.

Adjacent to her workshop is a deep tub where she can soak and scrub cured gourds for her numerous craft uses and shows. Ruth frequently presents demonstrations and programs on gourds and gourd crafts and recently taught her first class.

For many years, Ruth grew as much as two acres of large gourds, later reducing her plantings as her supply of gourds on hand increased. Among the many types she cultivates are giant bushel gourds and smaller, slightly flattened round gourds, dipper gourds, birdhouse gourds, even caveman gourds. This last is a club-shaped, slightly elongated type gourd covered with wart-like protrusions.

Much of Ruth's extensive knowledge and lore about gourds has been learned through her own experimentation and reading a wealth of printed materials about these "fruits."

Early in her gourd-growing trials, Ruth found that planting commercially-offered gourd seed of certain advertised varieties did not necessarily result in mature fruits of that type. Gourds commonly cross-pollenate; unless the seed purchased is "true," what a gardener thinks is planted and what the end of the season yields may be two entirely different results.

"Bushel and dipper gourds are reliable reproducers," she says of these two mainstay types for her creative uses. "One year, I wanted to grow round gourds and got a shape of gourd called a 'zucca' instead. I threw them away."

Then Ruth adds with a laugh, "Sometime later, I went back ad retrieved them after seeing what could be done with them."

These large gourds are a somewhat tropical species and need a long growing season, so Ruth starts seedlings inside in April, planting in peat pots. About a week before Mothers' Day, the seedings are planted outside. Since the weather is often still variable, she protects the tender seedlings with topped-out plastic jugs or large flower pots turned upside down with the bottoms removed.

"Gourds should be grown in good, fertile soil, with lots of dry manure worked in," Ruth advises. "They shouldn't be grown more than two years in the same place, or diseases will build up in the soil.

"Seedlings should have at least four leaves before they're set outside," is her experience. "For about a month, the plants will just 'sit there'; that's okay, because they're developing the root system. After that, vines will grow quickly."

When the vines are about four yards long, Ruth cuts the ends off, to encourage the development of side growth. For large bushel gourds, or encouraging larger fruits of nearly any gourd, only one or two fruits per vine should be allowed to grow and mature.

Gourds can be grown on plastic, and Ruth also likes to use a heavy mulch to hold moisture in the soil. For watering during dry spells, a seeper hose, which puts water right at the plants' roots, is preferable over sprinkler hoses which wet the leaves and vines, encouraging disease growth.

"Pray for a good, hot summer if you want to grow gourds," grins this gardening veteran. Excessive moisture causes mildew and rotting, a real problem during the 1992 growing season. In fact, Ruth notes that last year was not a favorable gourd production year anywhere around the world. The extreme wetness of the summer kept the gourds from developing the thick, strong shells necessary for most uses.

Gourds should be hardening on

(Turn to Page B3)

Out of her gourds, Ruth has devised such diverse creations as, from left, a Snoopy mask, arrangement with dipper gourd grown on the ground, sleigh, Santa and kettle gourd. A tobacco gourd, a type used by native Americans for storing tobacco products, at right has been attractively painted.

When fashioned into a floor lamp, gourds can light up your light.

the vines before the first frost, if they are maturing properly. Following killing frost, they should be picked with as much stem remaining as possible.

"Don't pick them up by the stems," Ruth says adamantly. Stems are both brittle and fragile and break off easily.

Mature gourds should be left outside or kept perhaps in an unheated garage or porch area all winter to finish hardening the shell. The largest bushel gourd takes up to eight months to fully cure so that the surface does not scratch in use.

After curing, gourds should be set out in the rain or kept damp in a plastic bag overnight to soften the rought outer skin so it can be removed to expose the smooth, inner shell layer. Shells can be sanded and sealed with acrylic sprays, painted decoratively, or left to their own natural warm-beige-colored beauty. Ruth often uses a wood-burning etching tool to fashion designs on the hardened gourd surface.

When Ruth wants to save seeds from a gourd she has grown, she checks at least six seeds with a pliers to see if the inside is fleshy. Masses of seeds passing the pliers test are swished in a container of water to loosen the dried membranes, then rubbed dry between towels. After the seeds are well air-dried, they are stored in zipper plastic bags in a cool, dry place. Ruth suggests that gourd seed be held no longer than three years.

"The best way to get seeds, though, is to join the American Gourd Society," Ruth believes. This organization of more than 6,000 members from around the world is 30 years old and headquartered in Mt. Gilead, Ohio. Their newletters, put out several times per year, features gourd growers, creative ideas, tips on cultivation and seed exchange and sales ads

The Gourd Society also keeps members up-to-date on the latest gourd show happenings and annually sponsors the world's largest gourd show. Ruth and her late husband L.M. began attending the Gourd Society's show many years ago. Friendships, fellowship, and gourd competitions keep drawing her back to the annual early October event. In fact, devising creative gourd designs for the show's competition often begins for Ruth even before the previous show ends.

She has won numerous awards, from her bird house creations of dipper gourds to the gourd fashion accessories she designs. While Ruth picks up new ideas from events like the Ohio gathering, she is just as likely to pass on her own creative techniques at this world's largest gathering of gourd-enthusiasts.

Ruth Sweitzer encourages beginning and veteran gardeners and craftspersons who interested in more information on gourds to join the American Gourd Society, Inc., P. O. Box 274, Mt. Gilead, Ohio, 43338.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Little surprises dropping into our everyday lives are the sprinkles on the ice-cream-cone of life.

Some provide momentary flashes of joy and memories to be savored- a bouquet of dandelions lovingly offered in the chubby hands of a beloved child, a whiff of mint stirred while walking in the meadow, a falling star, some special thoughtfulness of a friend.

Other surprises physically linger for longer periods of time- the Mother's Day climbing rosebush now eight-feet tall and growing, an unexpected wax-job for the car, the geese that accept us as neighbors during their six-month annual visit at the pond, a cluster of red tulips you forgot you planted last fall.

And then there's Butch.

Butch nearly got stepped on the first time we met. I was high-tailing it around the corner of the garage, late for morning calf feeding. He was hanging around the same corner, a stranger who showed up on the farm from....good question. He's never shared that secret of his past; we suspect some cowardly pet owner who couldn't bother spaying their cat dropped off this "donation."

When I reached down to pick us this few-ounce, mewing, bundle of striped dark tiger kitten, he snuggled against my neck. Rubbed my cheek. And promptly stole my heart.

Butch is a "people" cat; he hasn't yet met a human he doesn't like. Solomon the dog tangles with him on occasion. And he'll slip into the house any chance he gets to intimidate Monk, the housecat, into hiding behind the couch while he chows down her catfood.

Even while a kitten, Butch established his reputation as a busybody and a climber. If I'm throwing down hay for heifers, Butch will be sniffing around the bales in the haymow. He instuvtively knows which bale I'll toss down next, and parks himself on it.

When the calves are getting bottles, Butch strolls along the tops of their pen gates. And, when I'm washing bottles at the sink, Butch hops up on a bucket of lime kept handy for disinfecting pens and paws my knee if I haven't yet fed him and his feline pals their breakfast.

Butch accompanies us to the ponds, to the garden and hangs around the shop with whoever's working there, often perching himself high up on a tractor seat to observe the proceedings- and the sparrows in the rafters.

Late one evening last week, a newborn bull calf still in the calving area of the old bank barn needed to be fed a bottle of fresh, warm milk. I crawled through the gates, roused the baby from his snoozing spot in a pile of soft hay, and began feeding him supper.

Suddenly, a loud cat scream- and it was a scream- split the quiet of the barn at dusk. Tomcat fight, I figured. Until movement several yards away caught my eye.

Something was struggling in the middle of a pile of rather wet manure between two rows of old stalls. Something furry and darkish-colored and very unhappy.

Butch. Stuck in a cat's version of quicksand.

The calf got a bottle break while I climbed over another gate and retrieved one very messy, very smelly, VERY irritated cat. Which, in his haste to flee this predicament, left me with a scratched and bleeding hand.

Once safe, Butch paraded back to where the bottle feeding had resumed, wanting to be petted and comforted. What he got, instead, was a bath in the lukewarm, soapy water left after bottles were cleaned up.

Butch has since forgiven me. When I knelt to pet Solomon this morning, he hopped up on my knee for some equal attention; ten seconds later a hissing-snarling, cat-dog scuffle erupted in my face.

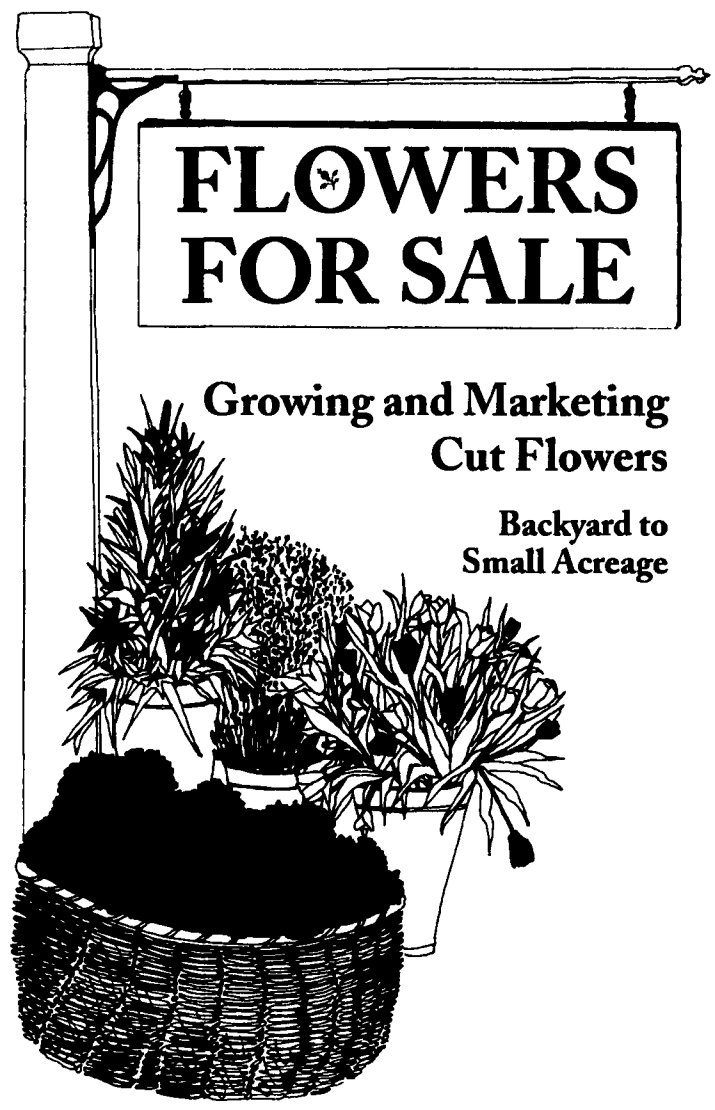
Butch the Cat. Keeping life full of surprises.

Everything You Need To Know To Start A Cut Flower Business

FRIDAY HARBOR, Wash. — With the cut flower business getting bigger every year, many gardeners are curious about how to market homegrown flowers.

A newly-released book written for small or beginning cut-flower market gardeners has 200 pages packed with information. "Flowers For Sale" answers the questions: How to get into the cut flower business, wWhat to grow that's saleable, where to sell what you grow.

Detailed plancs are offered for starting a supermarket bouquet business, which incules selling, pricing, display, equipment, harvest and conditioning techniques, business and tax details, collecting flowers and greenery from the wild.



The book also includes interviews with flower growers, buyers, and sellers in three different states. These include Saturday Market flowers sellers to international flower brokers, from U-pick flower farms to one grower who makes $650,000 on less than an acre of flower production.

Included is an extensive listing of the varieties of perennials, annuals, bulbs, tubers, trees, vines, shrubs and herbs that can be used successfully in growing flowers commercially.

The author Lee Sturdivant writes from first-hand experience. She lives on a 120x180-feet town lot, where she started a cut flower business a few years ago. Sturdivant writes that on a typical June day, she can cut and sell 20 blue delphiniums for $20, 10 mixed bouquets for $40, 40 stems Sweet William for $7, and two wedding bouquets for $35.

That is more than $100 worth of flowers a day from a small lot. If trends continue, the cut flower business will get even more profitable. People are willing to pay more for flowers than for fresh fruit and vegetables.

You should learn how to arrange flowers to increase appeal. It is of prime importance to protect cut flowers from premature wilting. All the little details to set up a profitable business and the pitfalls to avoid are given in the 200-page book.

The book is written in an easy-to-read style from a first- person perspective.

To order a copy of "Flowers For Sale," send $14.95 plus $1 for postage to San Juan Naturals, PO Box 642 S, Friday Harbor, WA 98250.

Checkbook Priorities

Last week many families were scurrying around making last-minute calculations for filing taxes. And for many, the money that president Bush "put in our pockets" last spring was coming out of our checkbooks this April. Some workers who were expecting refunds discovered the unpleasant truth that they owed taxes this year.

As I prepared my family's tax records, I reviewed recent entries in my check register. I was interested to look back at some of our expenses over the past year. Ideally, a person's spending should reflect his or her most important values or priorities. Does yours? Pull out your checkbook and review the recent entries. What do you see? Mortgage pre-payment? Charitable contribution? New exercise equipment? Medical payment? Groceries? Magazine subscription?

What do these entries tell you about the priorities you have established for your family? If you and the other members of your family would sit down and rank priorities, would they match the spending choices that you now make? Try this exercise:

Write the following items on separate slips of paper: sports car, education for selves, good car or pickup, eat out occasionally, adequate life insurance, large appliance or furnishings, rent and other bills paid on time, stereo or color television, church, savings for future wants, family trip, family or religious celebrations, education for children, stylish clothes, gifts for others, sports or other recreation, medicine and doctor.

Now put these items in order of importance to you. What do you value? At this time in your life what are some special needs for your family? For instance, you may have a long-standing belief in the value of education. But if your children have all received diplomas or college degrees, this may not be a current priority for you.

Each person in the family should rank the items. You can add more items if you think of any that are important to you. Do you enjoy having pets? Perhaps that should be added to the list. After each family member has ranked the items, compare your choices.

One time I had a couple whose primary needs were very different. The husband who worked long hours in the accounting department of a local company most wanted to spend money and time on a trip with his family. His wife who stayed at home caring for four children ranked her top choice as a vacation alone—to rest and recuperate. They had different needs?

Come to some agreement about your important goals? Once you have that list, compare it to the recent checks you have written. Do your payments actually reflect your priorities? Or have you been spending money eating out when you ranked buying a new sofa as a priority?

Our checkbooks reveal information about us. Does the action reflected in your checks match the priorities you speak about? If it doesn't, take some time today to rethink your spending habits. Set up a realistic plan for accomplishing the goal or acting on that value.

Grass Clipping Dilemna

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — As you prepare for spring ritual of mowing the grass, think about these suggestions for dealing with grass clippings.

Leaving grass clippings on the lawn will not harm your turf—in fact, it may be beneficial, says a Penn State turfgrass expert.

"It's estimated that 20 percent of what goes into landfills is yard debris such as leaves, hedge prunings and grass clippings," says Dr. Peter Landschoot, Penn State assistant professor of turfgrass science. "Recycling grass clippings not only is civic-minded, but it also can be beneficial to the lawn and saves the work involved in bagging.

"If you leave the clippings on the lawn, you can reduce fertilizer needs by as much as one-third. When turf is mowed on a regular basis, clippings break down easily, returning nitrogen and other nutrients to the soil.

"Some people are concerned that returning clippings to the lawn may result in thatch accumulation," says Landschoot. "But because the clippings decompose rapidly, they do not contribute to thatch."

For clippings to break down rapidly, the lawn must be mowed frequently enough so that large amounts of leaf residue don't remain on the surface of the turf. "Weekly mowing often isn't frequent enough, especially during the peak period of leaf growth in spring," he says. Excessive accumulations of clippings remain on the surface for long periods and can smother the grass.

"When you're mowing, you shouldn't take off more than one-third of the leaf blade at one time. Otherwise, you may scalp the grass and make it more vulnerable to stress."

If no herbicides have been applied to the grass, homeowners can rake the dried clippings and use them as mulch around trees, shrubs or flowers, says Landschoot.

Lawn mower manufacturers now offer mulching mowers that keep the clippings circulating under the mower deck, chopping the grass blades into finer pieces. "This hastens the decomposition of the clippings and reduces the amount of residue left on the lawn," says Landschoot.

"However, you don't have to buy a mulching mower to recycle clippings. Ordinary lawn mowers also will provide good results."

Grass clippings also can be composted. "If you combine clippings with tree leaves, the two sources of yard waste will complement one another in the composting process," Landschoot says.

Basic Mixes Ease Meal Preparations

You're in a hurry, but you don't want to sacrifice taste for convenience.

These recipes come to the rescue. Mix the basic mix ahead of time and store in airtight containers or in the refrigerator or freezer as the recipes direct. Then when you are in a hurry, you can mix up a made-from-scratch meal in a snap.

With one recipe, many varieties of cookies can be made. Your friends will think you baked for days. Only you will know the secret of master mixes.

BASIC BAKING MIX
8¾ cups flour
⅓ cup baking powder
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 cups vegetable shortening

In a large mixing bowl, sift together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening, one cup at a time, until it looks like corse meal. Put in covered container or plastic bag. Store at room temperature for about 3 months. For longer storage, place in freezer. To measure mix for use, lightly spoon into measuring cup, do not pack, level with a spatula.

Biscuits:

Spoon 2 cups mix into bowl. Make a well, add ½ cup cold milk all at once. Working quickly, stir vigorously with a fork just until dough follows fork around the bowl (30 to 40 seconds). turn out onto lightly floured surface and knead gently for another half minute to remove stickiness. Roll or pat out to ¼ - to ½ -inch thickness. Cut with cutter. Place on ungreased pan. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes. Makes 12 biscuits.

Drop biscuits:

Increase milk to ⅔ cup. Do not knead. Drop dough from a teaspoon onto well-greased cookie sheet. Bake as before.

Cheese biscuits:

Add ⅓ cup grated cheese, any flavor, to dough.

Onion biscuits:

Add ¼ cup chopped, sauteed onions to dough.

Ham-bacon biscuits:

Add ⅓ cup crisp bacon bits or ¼ cup finely chopped cooked ham to dough.

Pancakes:

Combine 1⅓ cups milk and 1 egg. Add 2 cups mix. Beat smooth with an egg beater. If you wish, fold in ½ cup blueberries or ¾ cup sliced apples. Drop onto hot, lightly greased griddle. Makes 10 four-inch pancakes.

Quick meal or chicken pie:

Pour 4 servings of canned or homemade beef or chicken stew into a buttered casserole dish. Bake at 425 degrees for about 10 minutes. Spoon 1 cup basic mix into a bowl. Make a well, pour ⅓ cup milk in all at once. Stir with fork until moistened. Drop by teaspoonfuls on top of heated stew. Bake 20 to 25 minutes more, serve.

Quick muffin mix:

Combine 3 cups basic mix and 3 tablespoons sugar in a sandwich bag. Seal well and label. To use: break 1 egg into a bowl and beat. Stir in 1 cup milk. Add mix from sandwich bag and stir quickly, only a few strokes — until just moistened. Batter should be lumpy. At this point, fold in variations. Fill tins ¾ full. Bake 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Variations:

Blueberry - 1 cup fresh, frozen or drained canned blueberries.

Cranberry - 1 more tablespoon sugar, ¾ cup raw, fresh berries.

Applesauce - Cut milk to ⅔ cup, add ½ sauce, cinnamon to taste.

Nut - ¾ cup chopped nuts of choice.

Raisin or date - ½ cup raisins, dates or currants.

Bacon - ½ cup crisp, crumbled bacon.

Cheese - ½ to¾ cup grated American cheese. Sprinkle with a little paprika before baking.

So, you love rice — but you don't have time to cook it and the one-minute variety does not satisfy your taste buds.

Here are some tips from the USA Rice Council, which will help make rice a regular staple in your home.

• Cook rice in large quantities to use in future recipes.

Refrigerate cooked rice. It will keep 7 to 10 days. Cover tightly so grains will not dry out.

• Cooked rice also may be frozen or reheated. It can be frozen for six months without any noticeable difference in taste and texture.

• To reheat rice, add 2 tablespoons water or other liquid per cup of cooked rice and heat in a saucepan or range top 5 minutes. Stir occasionally and fluff with a fork. Or reheat in the microwave on high power 1 minute per cup of cooked rice.

• To reheat frozen rice in the microwave, cover and microwave on high power 2 minutes per cup of rice. If reheating more than 2 cups at a time, stir and redistribute rice midway through cooking.

The USA Rice Council has many recipe brochures for your use. The latest release is Veg-able Rice, which has many recipes for a healthy diet. For a free copy, send a self-addressed, stamped, business-sized envelope to USA Rice Council, P.O. Box 740121, Houston, TX 77274.

Dairy Introduces A Cow-Spotted Milk Carton

ORVILLE, OHIO — Kids are seeing spots before their eyes in school. Smith Dairy has introduced cow-spotted cartons for their chocolate half-pint milk to be served in schools.

The paperboard cartons are white with brown spots resembling the patterns of the Holstein cow, or the dairy cow. The new container symbolizes the freshness and old-fashioned quailty that Smith Dairy is known for.

"We wanted to make our milk fun," says Brian DeFelice, vice president of sales for Smith Dairy. "Students love the cow spots. And the new graphics on the carton are a great way to encourage them to drink more milk."

The idea for the new container actually came from the United Dairy Industry Association. Smith's is the first dairy to take advantage of the associations's cow container concept. "We have seen a tremendous response from our use of cows in radio commercials and billboards. There's something about cows that people enjoy," adds DeFelice.

The new container was introduced in March throughout many Ohio school districts, including Columbus, Cleveland, Akron, Canton, Mansfield, Toledo and Dayton.

"We're excited about the new container," says Smith Dairy President Steven Schmid. "From a marketing standpoint, it really sets us apart."

Smith's is one of the largest independent dairies in Ohio. For more than 80 years, Smith Dairy has offered a variety of milk, ice creams, cottage cheese, sour cream, juices, fruit drinks, other cultured products, as well as Ruggles brand ice creams, frozen yogurts and low-fat dips.

Maraschino Cherries

Soak in cold water overnight:
4½ pounds sour cherries
1 teaspoon alum
2 tablespoons salt
2 quarts water

Next day: drain and rinse. Add the following ingredients:
4½ pounds sugar
1 ounce red food coloring
1½ cups water

Bring mixture to a boil and let set for 24 hours.

Day 3:

Add 1 ounce almond extract. Fill jars and cold pack for 30 minutes.

ANSWER — Trudy Brubaker of Mt. Pleasant Mills wanted a recipe for soft chocolate chip cookies. We printed some answers, and received about 50 more that we do not have room to print. Since chocolate chip cookies are a universal favorite, an upcoming feature on the cookies will be scheduled in Home On The Range section. The recipes we have already received from our readers will be used Thanks to Shelly Taylor, Andreas, who writes that the secret in keeping cookies soft is to put them in an air tight container with a slice of bread. The bread will get hard but the cookies stay soft. Another reader wrote that the secret to soft cookies is to remove them from the oven when the cookies are slightly underbaked. The cookie continues to bake a few minutes longer as they set on the cookie sheet. Experiment to get the proper timing. L.A. Mast wrote that new recipes are not always needed to make a superb cookie. She suggest experimenting with the recipe on the chocolate chip bag, by substituting butter flavored shortening and adding 1 to 2 tablespoons milk and 1½ teaspoon cream of tartar. Cookies will be chewier because of the extra liquid, and softer because of the tartar.

ANSWER — Patricia Davis, Dillsburg, wanted a recipe for shoo fly pie that tastes like those made by Zinn's Diner or Wixon's Bakery. Thanks to Judy Stayman, Chambersburg, for sending a recipe that she believes is delicious.

Shoo Fly Pie

Mix together until crumbly:
2 cups flour
2 cups brown sugar
½ cup butter

Set aside two cups of the crumbs for topping With the remaining crumbs, add and beat
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups King Syrup
1¾ cup hot water

Mix ½ cup hot water with 2 teaspoons baking soda. Add to mixture. Divide into 2 unbaked pie shells. Sprinkle crumbs on top. Spread crumbs with knife to edge of crust. Let set 3 minutes before baking at 450 degrees for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 375 degrees for 30 minutes.

American Agri-Women Call For Federal Budget Accountability

WAMEGO, Kan. — American Agri-Women (AAW), the nation's largest coalition of farm, ranch and agribusiness women, is urging the federal government to better manage its finances through better budgeting and planning.

The federal budget deficit and government debt are major factors in today's economy. As new taxes are being contemplated, AAW President Trenna Grabowski suggests that the federal government can take a lesson from agriculture and other small business and budget similarly.

She said, "When farmers and ranchers work up their budgets for the coming year, they don't look at last year's fertilizer expense and just add on a percentage based on what they think they'll spend this year.

"Rather, they go back to number of acres, soil tests, husbandry philosophy and what products they will use. They gather cost information and go from there.

"We in agriculture budget by saying, 'What do we want to accomplish? What will we have to spend to acomplish it?'"

Grabowski, an agricultural finance expert, says this is called zero-based budgeting and could be used by the government.

Zero-based budgeting, building a budget from the ground up, is a logical approach to developing a sound budget. Zero-based budgeting calls for looking at the activity of a department or program and analyzing each activity from a cost-benefit perspective.

A decision package is then designed which sets out specific goals for each activity. The decision packages are ranked in order of priority and the limited funds are assigned to competing activities on the basis of merit.

Another suggestion is for the federal government to prepare an annual financial report for the United States, and include it in the packet that taxpayers receive in early January with blank income tax forms.

Grabowski said, "Corporations prepare annual reports for their stockholders. Perhaps we stockholders in the United States of America should have an annual accounting and some accountability."

Federal budget and tax issues, including estate taxes, are among the topics which will be discussed at the upcoming Mid-Year Meeting of the AAW Board of Directors, to be held April 17-18, in St. Louis, Mo., at the Embassy Suites Hotel. All AAW members are welcomed.

AAW membership is open to all women with an interest in agriculture. For more information, contact Trenna Grabowski, 2006 Broadway, Mt. Vernon, Ill., 62864, (628) 242-8970.

LET'S DO BRUNCH

Celebrate this spring season of fresh fruits and vegetables with fresh and healthful ideas for brunch. Whether it is a formal indoor affair or a casual get-together for friends and family, brunch with its flexible menu, is sure to please everyone.

Toast the morning with eye-opening beverages. Enjoy vitamin-rich fruit coolers by blending juices with fruits. Try cantaloupe with pineapple juice and orange juice, or strawberries with orange or lemon juice, or a mixture of both.

For a unique twist, blend 16 ounces lowfat or nonfat strawberry yogurt, one-half cup cran-raspberry or cran-apple juice and two sliced bananas until smooth. This can also be served as a fruit soup.

With no specific rules for brunch, almost anything goes. Prepare extraordinary eggs. Saute sliced zucchini, mushrooms and chopped onions in a non-stick skillet until tender. Add tomato wedges and cook until heated through. To veggies with scrambled eggs and garnish with fresh basil and a touch of Parmesan cheese. If you are watching your cholesterol you may substitute one-fourth cup cholesterol-free egg product or two egg whites for each whole egg needed. You may also serve eggs and veggies over whole-wheat split English muffins, stuffed in pita pockets or rolled in warmed tortillas with a dollap of salsa.

Transform whole-grain waffles and pancakes into savory morning treats. Top them with tasty fruit salsa. Simply combine one pint fresh, diced strawberries, two cored and diced pears and one tablespoon honey. Or try a delicious fruit spread instead: place an 8-ounce container of lowfat vanilla yogurt on a clean coffee paper in a strainer and drain over a bowl overnight in your refrigerator. Combine the "cheese" portion that remains in the strainer with crushed pineapples, fresh sliced strawberries, raspberries or chopped peaches. Add a dash of flavor with cinnamon, ginger or nutmeg.

Impress your guests with innovative jumbo muffins. Start with your favorite lowfat, whole-grain muffin recipe. Bake in six-ounce custard cups or muffin tins. Remove muffins from pans after cooling slightly, slice off tops and hollow out. Stuff with chicken or shrimp salad made with lowfat dressing; a potpourri of vegetables sprinkled with lowfat cheese; or any other healthful filling that you prefer.

Whisk skim milk and egg or cholesterol-free egg substitute, a splash of vanilla, almond, or orange extract and cinnamon. Dip thick slices of French bread or raisin bread in liquid and brown on a hot griddle lightly coated with non-stick cooking spray. Meanwhile, combine lowfat ricotta cheese, chopped fresh fruit and a touch of honey. Sandwich filling between two slices of prepared French toast. Fruit and vegetable salads are a quick and colorful way to add the final touches to your spring brunch. Delicious eating and welcome spring!

Fresh Approach To Thai Cooking

Nipa Hammond, foreground, prepares large amounts of Thai food. Nipa operates an egg roll outlet and prepares other Thai foods for take out and for her catering service.

Participants in the Thai cooking workshop sample Thai foods. The workshop was sponsored by Berks County Extension.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — With continual studies stressing the importance of eating more vegetables, people are becoming more and more interested in Oriental cuisine.

Oriental cooking uses an abundance of vegetables with crisp textures, colorful contrasts and delicious tastes. If you have trouble convincing your family to eat more vegetables, try Oriental cooking, which should entice even the most relunctant child to eat all of his or her vegetables.

In the past, most people resorted to eating Oriental foods in restaurants because they did not know how to prepare it at home. But, today an abundance of recipes and cookbooks are available for the novice cook. With some practice, you should be able to become as adept at cooking Oriental-style as you are for everyday cooking.

Recently, Berks County Extension held a workshop on Thai cooking. It was an opportunity not only to learn how to prepare the food but also to taste it.

Nipa Hammond, who operates Nipa's Asian Foods, Inc., 18 N. 10th St., Reading, PA 19601, cooked many Asian dishes as she interspersed bits and pieces about the differences in Oriental cusine.

Chinese foods tend to be more greasy while Japanese food tends to be bland, plain, and dry compared to Thai cooking, which is sweet. Unlike Chinese food that uses lots of soy sauce, Thai recipes call for fish sauce and oyster sauce.

Fish and oyster sauces do not contain fish or any seafood. It is a mixture of salt, sugar, and spices and can be purchased in Oriental stores or the Oriental section of large supermarkets. Unlike soy sauce, fish sauce does not need to be refrigerated and will last forever, according to Nipa.

Nipa and her family came to the U.S. from Thailand about 20 years ago. Her family had operated a restaurant in their homeland. Nipa learned to cook by the "dump and taste" method and assured the audience that since Thai cooking is easily adaptable to this method, they should not be intimidated when improvising recipes.

"One of the advantages of Oriental cooking is that you can use any vegetables that you have on hand," she said.

Seasoning the foods is often adjusted according to taste. Red and yellow curry paste can be interchanged but red curry tastes very hot and the amount should be reduced for those who prefer a mild flavor.

Nipa warned that curry paste molds in the refrigerator within a few days. She suggests freezing it.

Powdered non-dairy creamer can be substituted for coconut milk. Tofu should be rinsed in water every day to remove the sour taste. Nipa cuts and fries tofu for use.

"Asian cooking means that you cook on high as fast as you can cook," Nipa said as she stir-fried vegetables.

A Thai drink that proved popular with the audience is easily made by boiling a ginger root in 10 quarts of water. Sweeten with sugar or honey. The drink can be served hot or cold.

Here are some recipes that Nipa prepared and proved to be favorites with the audience.

CHICKEN WITH GINGER

2 pounds diced chicken
½ pound sliced onion
½ pound green and red peppers
¼ pound fresh ginger root
3 tablespoons oyster sauce
¼ cup cooking oil (half olive/half vegetable)
1 medium size clove garlic

Heat the oil, add chicken. Cook for 5 minutes on high heat. Add chopped garlic and ginger. Continue cooking for 2 minutes. Add all vegetables and oyster sauce. Serve over steamed rice.

STIR FRIED VEGETABLES WITH CURRY POWDER

3 pounds mixed vegetables (your choice)
1 teaspoon curry powder
½ cup coconut milk
2 tablespoons fish sauce
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ cup cooking oil (half olive/half vegetable)

Heat the oil. Add curry powder. Add all vegetables. Add remaining ingredients. Do not cook more than 3 minutes on high heat.

SEAFOOD WITH RED CURRY

3 pounds mixed seafood (haddock, shrimp, etc.)
1 pound green beans
1 cup unsweetened coconut milk
1 tablespoon red curry paste
3 tablespoons fish sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
2 pieces lemon leaf
1 tablespoon oil
Sweet basil

Heat the oil. Add red curry paste. Add coconut milk. Add remaining ingredients. The flavor of basil is in the stem. Add the stem, then remove before serving. Cook for 10 minutes on high heat.

Grandmother's, Granddaughter's Love For Weaving Benefits School

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — There is no generation gap between Hazel Reist and her 13-year-old granddaughter Meryl Reist.

Their two lives are intertwined by their shared love for weaving. The two work side by side at the looms set up in a spare bedroom of Hazel's and her husband's Century Farm in Mount Joy.

"I like that my grandmother and I can weave at the same time and talk. If I have a problem, Grandma can help me," Meryl said.

Under her grandmother's tutelage, Meryl has become so adept at weaving that she recently placed first in textile competition at Kraybill's Mennonite School in Mount Joy. This means that Meryl's weaving project will be entered in competition with all Christian schools in the Mid-Atlantic Christian School Association, which covers several states along the East Coast.

The school will also benefit financially from the weaving talents of Hazel who has woven a finely detailed coverlet for the school's annual benefit auction to be held May 8.

The Whig Rose pattern coverlet is woven in blueberry and natural colors. The coverlet is reversible and measures about 80x100-inches, for a full-sized bed.

Hazel is also donating another major work of art to the benefit sale. It is a watercolor of the Donegal Witness Tree, a historical landmark in Mount Joy.

The Witness Tree achieved historical interest because it was the location in 1777 where a courier arrived at the Donegal Presbyterian Church to summon the militia to help General George Washington in his attempt to protect Philadelphia from the British. The congregation joined hands and gathered around the white oak tree in the church yard and pledged their lives and allegiance to independence. The white oak became known as the Witness Tree and an annual celebration is held in remembrance of the occasion.

It's a scene that is now etched only on canvas or captured on earlier photographs because the Witness Tree needed to be taken down because of decay in 1991. Hazel had painted the scene that shows the Witness Tree with the church during the 1950s.

Hazel honed her artistic talents when as a teen-ager, she attended art school in Philadelphia, where she focused on technical design with wallpaper and fabric, and received national recognition when she won first-place for a wallpaper design contest that she entered in 1948. Hazel's rural background was reflected in the design she created on the wallpaper, which shows the new and old methods of reaping wheat intertwined with morning glories. The wallpaper was silkscreen printed. In addition to prize money, the company gave Hazel rolls of the wallpaper, which she used to paper the dining room wall in the farmhouse.

But, Hazel did not learn weaving until 1983, when her daughter-in-law recommended that she take a weaving class at Elizabethtown College.

"The course was basic and elementary enough to whet my appetite," Hazel said.

When the Reists heard of a loom for sale, they purchased it.

Hazel regretfully recalls that her first reaction after seeing the loom setting in her home, caused her to say, "What am I going to do with this monstrosity?"

That question was in response to the overwhelming realization that she had no idea how to dress the loom and no directions to do so.

"Now I consider the loom a piece of fine furniture," Hazel said as she lovingly ran her fingers over the well-made wooden frame.

Fortunately, Hazel soon learned of a weaving class being offered by Mannington's in East Berlin. There she learned to dress the loom and the many other details needed to produce fine coverlets.

Hazel's weaving time is tucked in between her daily chores, but it is an art that always fascinated her granddaughter Meryl. She spent many hours watching her grandmother "dress the loom," with 1,008 threads, divided into 21 sections with 48 threads per section.

When Hazel offered to teach Meryl loom weaving, Meryl proved a conscientious student. By following a chart that details the pattern that is made by pushing the four harnesses controlled by foot pedals and by throwing alternate shuttles through the separated threads, Meryl produced a plain weave pattern pillow cover last year. This year, Meryl wove a beautifully designed pillow cover in a Queen Ann's lace pattern. Color in the weft helps give a pattern.

Wool thread is used for the coverlets, and cotton acrylic for pillow tops and placemats. All pieces are washable.

Hazel and Meryl Reist weave on the looms while Meryl's sister Dana, center, watches.

It takes a lot of time to set of the loom, but it is worth it both Hazel and Meryl said.

Hazel's husband, Henry, helps wind the warp on the warp beam, and he purchased another loom in 1986 on which he intends to weave.

"As if that will ever happen!" Hazel said, skeptic that her husband will ever slow down enough from his seed business to weave.

In the interim, Hazel is thrilled that her granddaughter finds weaving fascinating.

Hazel has woven coverlets for each of her sons, with names, birthdates, and wedding dates woven into the fabric. She also made miniature coverlets for the grandchildren and many placemats for gifts. She would like to weave a coverlet for each of her 11 grandchildren, but isn't sure if she will find the time to do so.

"It's frustrating to want to weave when everyday duties need to be done," Hazel said.

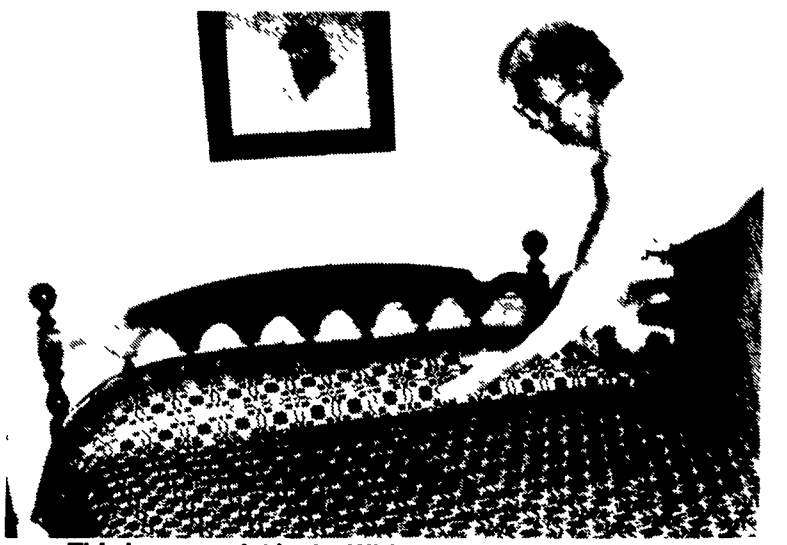
But Hazel loves the thrill of finishing a coverlet. "I like to create something special, unique, hand woven. Coverlets have both beauty and utilitarian qualities."

Hazel is a long-time member of Farm Women Society 4. She and her husband spent Easter 1992 in Moscow when they paid a return visit to Moldavians who had toured their business and farm during a Friendship Force visit several years ago.

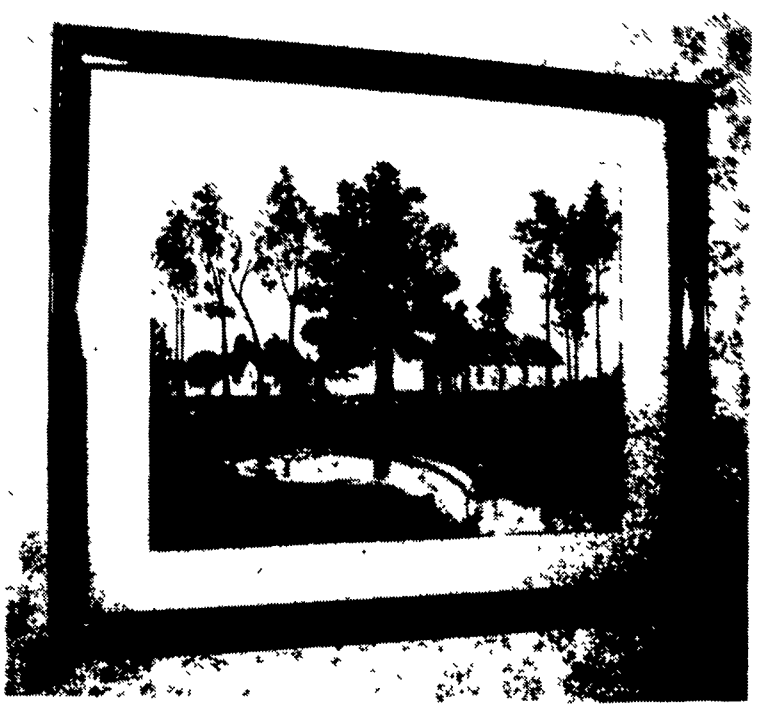
Henry and Hazel live on their 1828 Century Farm. The original house is no longer there, but the Reists' home was built in 1833. The Reists raise steers and sheep and rent crop-land to a neighboring farmer. Henry and his son, Dave, operate Reist Seed Company, which was established in 1925 in Mount Joy.

The Reists have four sons. Dave (Meryl's father), his wife Pam, and four daughters built a two-story house on the farm, which enables Meryl to run over to her grandmother's home to work on the loom. Meryl's talents are not limited to weaving because she also placed first in piano and flute playing and will advance to regional competition.

This pillow top that Meryl made for competition at her school placed first and will advance to competition among schools in other states.



This is a coverlet in the Whig rose pattern that will be sold at the 16th annual benefit auction of Kraybill Mennonite School.



A watercolor of the Witness Tree, which Hazel painted, will be auctioned on May 8.

Benefit Auction To Be Held May 7, 8

In addition to the coverlet, the 16th annual Benefit Auction at the school will also feature a large variety of quilts, art, and collectibles.

A pig roast will kick off the two-day auction beginning Friday, May 7 at 5:00 p.m. to 8 p.m. A craft and plant sale, plus the quilt and art preview will also be held during those hours.

On Saturday, May 8 from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., egg omelets, home fries, pancakes and sausage will be served.

The auction will begin at 9 a.m. with 21 quilts to be sold beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Credit Repair

NEWARK, DE — Consumers with poor financial histories are often lured by too-good-to-be-true offers of instant credit repair, says Maria Pippidis, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension home economics agent.

"Companies that promise to clean up your credit record for a price are out to take you," Pippidis says. "A good credit rating can't be bought- it must be earned. However, under federal law you have the right to attach statements of explanation to your credit record. You can do this yourself simply by writing to the major credit bureaus."

Protect yourself against fraudulent credit-repair offers, the agent says, by taking these precautions:

•Be suspicious when you are told that accurate information will be changed or erased, or that any company can repair a bad credit rating.

•Be wary if you are asked for a large fee in advance.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My children gave me five new flower plants at Eastertime. One is a lily, one an azalea, one a pot of white and pink tulips and two are begonias. They are all beautiful and I do enjoy them.

With all those children and grandchildren only one thing got broken. It was only chipped and can be repaired. The 20 of them were so loud and talkative that I rang a dinner bell to get their attention when the meal was ready.

One family was here all week and the children often begged their father to take them to the dairy farm. There they had calves, dogs, and cats to play with them. Although, we also have three black cats and three black kittens. Our cats did not get much peace with two youngsters interested in playing with them all of the time.

Six-year-old Matthew and I took a long walk through the meadow to the Conestoga River. We pickede up the pieces of plastic that had blown there over the winter. And, I showed him a special tree, that I always showed my children when they were little. It has a hole in the trunk, near the base, that is always filled with water. His little sister, three year old Rebecca, went to the grocery store with me and fell asleep in th ecart. Even putting a box of ice cream on her lap did not awaken her.

Our family would not have been able to visit us if it were not for automobiles and airplanes. When I was Rebecca's age my parents drove me in a buggy to my grandparents for Easter. They only lived two miles away. Some people still travel with horse and buggy as we saw many Amish carriages pass our house on Easter morning on their way to a neighbor's home. Even though their way of life seems to be slower paced, we are glad for modern transportation that helps us visit each other.

PICKLED CUCUMBER FOR SATAY

4 cups peeled/sliced cucumber (small pieces)
Add:
1 cup diced onions
½ cup sugar
¼ cup white vinegar
4 pieces cloves
4 pieces allspice
Hot pepper, if desired
Jalapeno pepper, if desired
Carrot, diced, if desired
Red pepper, if desired
Fish sauce, to taste
Curry powder, to taste

Combine ingredients. (No need to boil vinegar and sugar if the dish is eaten the same day, but do boil if stored in the refrigerator overnight). Cloves and allspice are used whole and removed before serving. Cover and refrigerate several hours before serving.

SATAY SAUCE

1 cup unsalted peanuts
1 cup coconut milk
1 tablespoon curry powder
½ cup fish sauce
½ cup sugar
Chinese shallots

Grind together all ingredients. Add about ½ cup water, after using it to rinse out mixer/grinder and add the chicken stock used to make chicken satay. Simmer on low temperature for about 1 hour. Add water if sauce is drying out. Makes about 2 cups sauce. Stir every 10 minutes as peanuts tend to sink to the bottom.

CHICKEN SATAY

2 pounds chicken white meat (cut in large chunks)
1 tablespoon curry powder
2 tablespoons fish sauce
½ cup coconut milk
1 tablespoon sugar

Mix together all ingredients. (Nipa often boils the chicken in water for tenderness before she mixes it with the other ingredients. Reserve the chicken stock for satay sauce). Set aside in refrigerator for 20 minutes. Remove the chicken, skewer and place in baking tray, turn on broiler. Broil chicken for 5 minutes, turn over, broil for another 3 minutes. Do not over broil. (Do not bake chicken or it will become tough). Serve with Satay Sauce.

Dauphin Pageant

The 1993-94 Dauphin County Dairy Princess Pageant will be held on Friday, June 18, at 8:00 p.m. at the Dauphin County Agriculture Center, Peters Mountain Road, Dauphin.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — F.T.C. wanted a recipe for raisin pie with lots of "goo," with a custard base made with milk. Thanks to Bonnie Martin, Narvon, and Patti Cockell, Henderson, Md., for sending recipes.

Raisin Custard Pie

1 cup raisins
1½ cups milk
2 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoon cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
9-inch baked pie shell

Simmer raisins in water for 10 minutes; drain; set aside. Combine sugar, cornstarch, and salt. Beat together egg yolks and milk. Stir slowly into sugar and cornstarch mixture Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil 1 minute Remove from heat and stir in raisins

Pour into pie shell Chill Serve topped with whipped cream

Raisin Pie

2 cups raisins
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts
1½ cups boiling water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon orange juice

Bring water to a boil and cook raisins 5 minutes to reconstitute Mix together sugar and cornstarch Add sugar mixture to raisins and cook until thickened Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients. Stir to blend. Pour into prepared pie shell. Cover with second crust and crimp together edges. Prick holes with a fork to allow steam to escape while baking. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Cool and glaze with confectioners' icing.

Icing

1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Dash salt
Light cream

Combine sugar and salt in a bowl, add cream, one tablespoon at a time, blending until desired consistency is obtained Add vanilla, blend and spoon onto top crust, avoiding the edges.

ANSWER — Mrs. John Snyder Jr. asked what is MSG, which was requested in a recent recipe. MSG is an abbreviation for monosodium glutamate, a crystaline salt used for seasoning food. It is a flavor enhancer that does not taste salty but has the same function. Check spice racks at large grocery stores and oriental food stores if you want to purchase it

Here are the facts why ULTRAFLO® outperforms chain feeders
NOW! New ULTRAFLO® II trough design means even more feed savings over chain feeders
FEED SAVINGS. Customers report 1/2 to 2 lbs per 100 birds/day—over $10,000 per year saved on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year!
TROUGH DESIGN. High tensile steel for strength. No feed buildup or waste like chain trough
NO HI-GRADING of feed due to our design. Chain lets birds pick over feed while feeder runs
REMIXES FEED. Our auger slowly revolves, keeping old and new feed blended. Chain doesn't so feed can get stale
REPAIR & MAINTENANCE. Ours needs the least of all feeders. Easy splicing with auger connector, and no troublesome corners or chain guides to replace. Saves money and time year after year

SIMPLE OPERATION. "Push-Pull" Power Units with low HP motor are located along the feeder line as needed.

EASY AUGER CONNECTOR. Allows fast and simple installation, also quick and easy repair of auger if ever necessary.

Over 80% of the nation's top egg producers* have already switched to Chore-Time cages with ULTRAFLO® Feeders!*

They've all looked at the advantages and chosen ULTRAFLO. That's because it makes them more profitable. Total egg production and egg size—these are the best benefits of our complete feeding system.

Why not check out the facts for yourself? Contact us now—or ask any producer who owns ULTRAFLO.

Because the only negative comments about our feeding system come from our competition—not from our customers.

Joseph Graybeal of Peach Bottom was recognized as the Outstanding Young farmer over 30. Graybeal is in partnership with his brother on a 900-acre farm with 380 Holstein cows.

The Active Member award was presented to A. Dale Herr of Kirkwood. Herr has been a past chapter officer and is currently serving his second term as secretary for the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association.

This year's Chapter Appreciation award was presented to Little Britain Agri Sup-ply, Quarryville, for their support of the Young Farmer program. Little Britain Supply is working closely with chapter members in conducting their crop demonstration plots on ground at the Swift Middle School and has also donated some of the materials. Little Britain Supply received an engraved plaque in appreciation of their support.

The following corn awards were presented to winners in the annual corn production contest. Rick Brenneman, Quarryville, produced 182 bushels of shelled corn per acre to win the grain division. Ed Harnish, Christiana, was second with 174 bushels, and Herbert Weaver, Quarryville, was third with 169 bushels per acre. Brenneman received the award for the highest grain yield average for the past three years with 169.8 bushels.

In the corn silage division, Larry Aaron, Quarryville, placed first with 27.9 tons per acre of 65 percent moisture corn silage. Ed Zug, Peach Bottom, was second with 27.1 tons per acre, and Steve Aument, Quarryville, placed third with 24.8 tons per acre. Zug and Aaron each received a trophy for the highest silage yield average for the past three years with 25.5 tons per acre.

Four dairy production awards were also awarded. Rick and Mim Brenneman, Quarryville, received the top Holstein herd award with 26,636 pounds of milk, 843 pounds of butterfat, and 696

Herbicide Receives EPA Approval

DES PLAINES, ILL. — Frontier® Herbicide, a new chemistry from Sandoz Crop Protection, has been approved by the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for control of annual grasses and certain broadleaf weeds in corn.

"Farmers are demanding more from their crop protection than just great performance. They want a product that will protect their environment as well as their crop," said Ken Rinkenberger, business director for Frontier. "Through extensive research, Sandoz scientists developed a chemistry that provides consistent performance and helps preserve the environment. Frontier is our answer to crop protection in the 1990s and beyond."

The active ingredient in Frontier—dimethenamid—was discovered in 1982 at Sandoz research laboratories in Basel, Switzerland. During the past 10 years, more than 2,000 research and on farm trials nationwide confirm the consistent performance of the herbicide.

For example, across a wide range of weather and field conditions, compared to preemergence standards, Frontier has shown better or equal control 95 percent of the time. The herbicide has also been rated better in about 80 percent of the trials when differences in control occur.

In 10 years of testing, Frontier has demonstrated good-to-excellent control of grasses, such as foxtail, crabgrass, barnyardgrass, goosegrass, broadleaf signalgrass, seedling johnsongrass, southwestern cupgrass, and panicums; broadleaf weeds such as pigweed, black nightshade, carpetweed, purslane and spurges; and nutsedge. In addition, it has shown partial control or suppression of woolly cupgrass, Florida beggarweed, wild proso millet, lambsquarters, shattercane, ragweed and sandbur.

Dimethenamid belongs to the chloroacetamide class of chemistry, but is not an acetanalide like other chloroacetamide products, such as metolachlor and alachlor. A "Thiophene ring" structure makes the dimethenamid molecule unique and gives it several beneficial characteristics that contribute to its performance and positive environmental profile. It increases the unit activity of the structure, allowing it to control problem grasses at a much lower rate.

Frontier fits crop residue management systems that protect the land. In conventional and all conservational tillage systems, Frontier has been shown to wash off surface residue and get to the soil quickly, so more active ingredient is readily available for take-up by the weed seedling. Less rainfall is needed to activate Frontier, regardless of the tillage system used.

Frontier will be sold as a 7.5 pound active-ingredient per gallon (900 grams a.i. per liter) emulsifiable concentrate. Recommended use rate is 13 to 25 fluid ounces per acre, depending on soil type—about one pound less a.i. per acre than the standard preemergence grass herbicides.

These lower use rates will reduce environmental loading and will allow applicators to handle less product. For example, a grower treating a 500-acre field (medium soil with about 3 percent organic matter) would normally use about 313 gallons of formulated alachlor or 125 gallons of formulated metolachlor. That same field can be treated with only 78 gallons of formulated Frontier.

The chemical structure of Frontier biodegrades efficiently into dozens of simple compounds and elements, so carryover and crop safety are not concerns. Tests show that young corn plants quickly metabolize the herbicide and show excellent tolerance, even at two times the recommended rate.

Frontier fits most cropping systems. It can be used early preplant, preplant, preemergence, delayed preemergence, and early postemergence. It also can be tank-mixed or used in sequence with broadleaf herbicides, such as Banvel®, Marksman®, or Clarity™, for broad-spectrum control of grasses and broadleaves in corn.

Frontier will be available in limited supply throughout the Midwestern Corn Belt for the 1993 growing season.

pounds of protein. The Brennemans also had the high Holstein for butterfat with 1,116 pounds. An average of 827 more pounds of milk and 36 more pounds of butterfat per cow earned the Brennemans the most improved herd award as well.

Graywood Farms, owned by Joseph and Steven Graybeal, Peach Bottom, received the high Holstein cow award for milk production, producing 30,755 pounds.

Berks County Gets Water Quality Funds

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Funds totaling $140,350 have been made available under the 1993 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) to implement conservation management practices in the Tulpehocken Watershed, according to Richard Troutman, chairman of the Berks County ASC Committee.

"The Water Quality Incentive Project (WQIP) provides both technical and financial assistance for producers to change management systems to help solve resource problems associated with agricultural non-point source pollution adversely affecting water quality," he said.

To participate, farming operations must be contributing — or have the potential to contribute — through their current management system, agricultural non-point source pollutants such as agricultural chemicals, animal washes, or sediments to surface or groundwater.

"Incentive payments will only be available for management practices," Troutman said.

The Tulpehocken Watershed covers a two-county area of about 43,300 acres.

"Agricultural producers in Berks and Lebanon Counties should be alert to this project," said Troutman. "It is a good way to help solve a larger, community-wide problem and the incentive payments gives producers a good opportunity to participate."

Dennis Massier, left, general manager of the Case Power & Equipment store in Des Moines, Iowa, accepts the award for North American Store of the Year from Jon Carlson, Case vice president-retail operations. Nearly 150 Case stores competed for the honor.

Case Power & Equipment 'Store Of Year'

DALLAS, Texas — J I Case has honored Case Power & Equipment of DesMoines, Iowa, as North American "Store of the Year" for outstanding performance in 1992.

The award, presented at a recent company sales meeting held in Texas Stadium, singles out the Des Moines store from among nearly 150 Case stores for its superior financial management of the business, including management of new and used inventory, proficiency in parts and service management and management of receivables.

Seven other Case Power & Equipment stores received top and runner-up honors for their regions:

• CP&E Philadelphia Complex (comprised of stores in Montgomeryville, Penn., and Newcastle, Del.) — Eastern Region Store of the Year

• CP&E Red Deer, Alberta — Northern Region Store of the Year

• CP&E Shoal Lake, Manitoba — Northern Region Runner-up

• CP&E Houston Complex (comprised of stores in Houston and Alvin, Texas) — Southern Region Store of the Year

• CP&E Davenport, Iowa — Western Region Runner-up

"Employees at these Case stores can be very proud," said Jon Carlson, Case vice president-retail operations. "These awards are the Case store equivalent of 'Best Picture' honors; they encompass every facet of the business."

Dennis Massier, general manager of the Des Moines store said, "We're extremely pleased to be named 'Store of the Year' because of the positive reflection on our entire staff. We're especially proud of what it suggests about the quality of service we strive to provide to the customers in our area."

Dry House Farm Receives Herd Award

DeFOREST, Wis. — Dry House Farm, owned and operated by Lester Yoder and his brother Ray Yoder, received the February Genetic Management System Elite Herd award from American Breeders Service (ABS). This award is one of 12 that will be given in conjunction with the 25th Anniversary of ABS' Genetic Management System (GMS).

Dry House Farm, located near Belleville, Pa., is home to 102 milking Holsteins producing an average of 21,801 pounds of milk, 792 pounds of fat, and 674 pounds of protein. Good management as well as solid genetics are keys to the success of the Yoder herd. Artificial Insemination (A.I.) and ABS' Genetic Management System help the Yoder operation achieve production goals set for their 100 percent ABS-sired herd.

GMS has been a part of the Yoder management program for 17 years. "With so many bulls to choose from, we were having a hard time making mating decisions," said Lester Yoder. "GMS not only simplifies our mating decisions, it also reduces the amount of time we need to spend selecting bulls to mate with individual cows."

The Yoders meet with their GMS Evaluator, Paul Bauder, once a year to re-evaluate and establish sire standards for their cows. Yoder said, "We place our main emphasis on milk production and functional type traits when selecting bull standards, with secondary emphasis on protein production."

Two cows in the Dry House Farm herd stand out in Yoder's mind as top notch GMS offspring. "We have an Excellent scored Tri-Day Valiant GOLD daughter that produced over 30,000 pounds of milk and over 1,000 pounds of fat in 305 days!" said Yoder. Yoder said that they are milking an Excellent (2E) Lime-Hollow Elevation MARS daughter producing more than 20,000 pounds of milk.

In addition to using GMS on cows, the Yoders recognize the advantages of GMS evaluation for heifers. "We didn't initially use GMS on our heifers, but now 100 percent of them are mated with the program," said Yoder. "We feel the heifers are just as important, if not more important, than the cows when it comes to mating decisions."

With the help of GMS, the Yoders find it easier and less time consuming to select the genetics for building a profitable dairy herd.

The Genetic Management System was designed by American Breeders Service (ABS) to help dairy producers make sound mating decisions for their heifers and cows. The program has experienced tremendous success that can be seen in thousands of herds throughout North America and Europe.

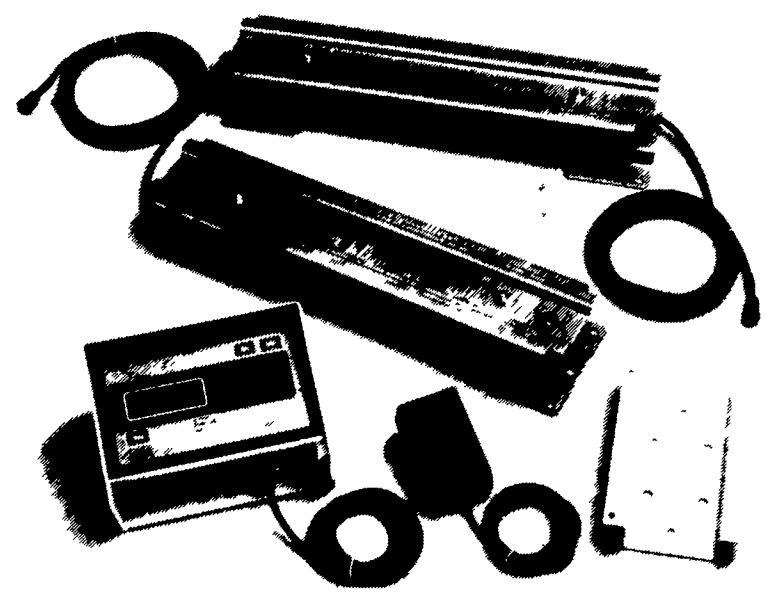
J-Star Electronics 'Weighs In' For Livestock

FT. ATKINSON, Wis. — J-Star Electronics has introduced its new Stock Weigh Electronic Scale.

Designed for weighing livestock, the Stock Weigh features its exclusive "Lock-On" display feature, and provides 99 percent accuracy even when weighing the most restless animals. The Stock Weigh will provide a fast, accurate static weight for restless and moving animals, enabling you to determine correct market weights.

The new Stock Weigh system is designed with a digital indicator display that provides fast, easier-to-read weights. Combined with the "Lock-On" feature, the indicator eliminates fluctuations that other electronic or mechanical scales experience.

The Stock Weigh also provides just two operation keys for ease of operation: - a "check weigh" key which allows the operator to double check the animal's weight without taking it off the scale, and a tare key for temporary zero of weight. The Stock Weigh Systems offer capacities from 2,000 pounds up to 6,000 pounds. The two-channel corrosion-resistant stainless steel loan cell mounts are available in 16-inch, 24-inch, or 44-inch widths and easily adapt to any type of steel or wood deck, cage or chute.



Designed for weighing livestock, the Stock Weigh features its exclusive "Lock-On" display feature, and provides 99 percent accuracy even when weighing the most restless animals.

Although most Stock Weigh scales are used for weighing livestock, to determine market weights, to obtain litter weights, evaluate feed performance, determine weights for medicine doses, plus select the best breeding stock.

For more information about the Stock Weigh Scale Systems, contact J-Star Industries Electronics, 801A Janesville Avenue, Ft. Atkinson, WI 53538, (414) 563-5521 or (800) 225-7695.

Association Honors Samulis

Ray Samulis, left, receives the Pesticide Association of New Jersey's Distinguished Service Award from Gerry Ghidiu, association past president. Samulis was recognized for his outstanding service in pesticide education.

RUTGERS, N.J. — Ray Samulis, county agricultural agent in Burlington County, recently received the Pesticide Association of New Jersey's Distinguished Service Award. Samulis was recognized for his outstanding service in pesticide education.

Samulis has been county agricultural agent since 1976. He was graduated from Delaware Valley College with a bachelor's in horticulture and received a master's in pomology from Cornell University.

During the last 15 years, Samulis has received more than 25 awards for program accomplishments in many areas, including farm safety, farm worker training, and cranberry and sweet corn research. In 1989, he received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

Samulis has made more than 50 television shows aired on Channel 3-KYW in Philadelphia during the last 10 years. In 1980, along with now Secretary of Agriculture Art Brown Samulis designed the first teachers education exhibit which was viewed by thousands of teachers at the New Jersey Teachers Convention.

He has lectured on pesticide topics to audiences ranging from the New Jersey Science Teachers Association to farm workers. In 1991, Samulis was the first to organize pesticide training programs for the farm worker community in New Jersey. As a result, more than 200 farm workers were trained in both English and Spanish.

Recently, worker training programs have been expanded into Chinese and now include sessions in electrical safety and the prevention of back injury. Ray was a speaker on farm safety issues at the New Jersey Farm Bureau annual meeting in 1991 and 1992.

Samulis has served the Pesticide Association of New Jersey as president, vice president, director of public relations, and a director since 1976. Through his efforts, the first farming coloring book was designed to teach young children modern farming practices and was distributed to more than 3,000 New Jersey school children.

Adams Conservation District Honors Members

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The Adams County Conservation District held its annual banquet on March 18 at the York Springs Fire Company Community Center.

Nearly 120, ranging from farmers and contractors to DER and SCS representatives, enjoyed a family style dinner and good company. District chairman John Lott served as master of ceremonies.

The evening meal started with the invocation by district farm director Bill Oyler. Following the meal, Dr. Les Lanyon, Penn State professor of soil fertility, served as guest speaker.

In his speech, "Why Nutrient Management Now?", Lanyon explained why nutrient management has become such a high priority. He illustrated this point most notably by distributing Hershey Kisses to the audience. "As you eat that Hershey kiss . . . remember the phosphorus that is in that Hershey kiss is 14 million years old."

Lanyon explained that the nutrients that are applied in the form of fertilizers to fields in the corn belt are from a different time (10 - 15 million years ago) and a different place (Florida, South America, etc.). This corn is then shipped to a dairy farm in southern Pennsylvania. He went on to explain that only a small percentage of the nutrients from the imported corn leave the farm in the form of milk. The rest become concentrated on the farm.

To more vividly illustrate this point, Lanyon gave a brief history of the problems that have occurred in Lake Okeechobee, Fla. This region had problems similar to those we are seeing in the Chesapeake Bay watershed. Nutrient runoff from intense dairy operations were the cause of a 120 square mile algal bloom in the lake. Lanyon pointed out that the answers

Adams County farmers completing their Chesapeake Bay Program Contracts in 1992 were presented signs of recognition at the conservation district's annual banquet. Chesapeake Bay Program Farms are working to improve water quality in Adams County and, ultimately, the Chesapeake Bay through soil conservation and nutrient management. Pictured left to right are Mike Smith, Adams Lobaugh (accepting for nephew Vince Lobaugh), Lloyd Spahr, Harold King, and District Chairman John Lott. Not present for the photo were Raiana Mearns, Melvin Trostle, Wiebe Viersma, George Bankert, and James Houser.

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Richard Melchert of Elmer, N.J. has been named new sales representative for Gro-Mor Plant Food Company, headquartered in Lancaster County.

Melchert will be marketing high yield yet economical, true solution liquid fertilizers to growers in southern New Jersey, and can be reached at (609) 358-0574. He will combine his personal farming experience (currently farming 300 acres) with the more than 140 years of success shared by the Gro-Mor Management Team.

Gro-Mor Plant Food Company, (800) 322-0060) offers starter and foliar fertilizers designed to maximize plant yields in harmony with the environment and the soil's inherent fertility levels. Soil sampling is a regular part of the complete fertility program. These fertilizers are also near neutral in pH, so they are not acidic or caustic, making them safe to handle.

Adams Conservation District

for Lake Okeechobee were neither easy nor cheap. It is estimated that the economy in that region has been dealt a $30 million blow in order to clean up the lake. Lanyon went on to conclude that "Nutrient management is not limited to neat little borders." Farmers, industry, consumers, and neighbors are all affected.

The conservation district presented its annual awards. First, the "Outstanding Cooperator" award was given. This award goes to a farmer who has continually implemented conservation work over the years. Mike Keiser was given this award. Keiser has been an active cooperator since the early 1980s. His home farm is in the Chesapeake Bay Program and a newly acquired farm has also been entered into the program. Not only has Keiser completed soil conservation work on his own ground, he has also shown the same care for the ground he rents.

Donald Peters and John Sanders are sharing the 1992 "Farmer of the Year" Award. This award goes to a farmer who has done a great deal of conservation work over the past year. Farmer John Sanders and landowner Donald Peters installed two waterways totaling more than 775 feet and added tile to protect them. Sanders also installed a 300-foot waterway and protective tile on another farm he rents. Sanders has been an active cooperator for many years. Peters has become active in conservation only recently and it is quite rare to find a non-farming landowner who is interested in soil conservation, according to the district.

In October 1992, Art and Mary Wolfe were presented the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation District's "M.K. Goddard Forest Resource Management Award" at the annual awards banquet in Allentown. The owners of 234 acres in Northern Adams County were given this award so that they could be honored locally. The Wolfes have planted some 15,000 trees and show no signs of quitting.

The final recognition of the night was given to those farmers who had completed their Chesapeake Bay Program contracts in 1992. Ten farmers received a farm sign, certificate, and lapel pin.

The Adams County Conservation District presented Michael Keiser, left, with the "Outstanding Cooperator Award" for his continued efforts in soil conservation over the years on both his own farm and rented land. District Chairman John Lott presented Michael with the honor.

Landowner Donald Peters, left, and farmer John Sanders, right, became the "1992 Farmer of the Year" for the exceptional amount of soil conservation work done on Peters' farm and on other farms that Sanders rents. Presenting them with the recognition is District Chairman John Lott.

USMEF Calls For Continued Reductions

DENVER, Colo. — The U.S. Meat Export Federation (USMEF) called on Japan to continue reducing its beef tariff upon the expiration of 1988's U.S./Japan beef liberalization agreement, saying that such reductions benefit Japanese consumers as well as the American beef industry.

"While we are pleased with the progress that has been made under the 1988 beef agreement, our position is that the Japanese must continue to reduce the duties on beef imports in 1994 and beyond," said USMEF President & CEO Philip M. Seng.

On April 1, 1993, Japanese tariffs on imported beef dropped 10 percentage points to 50 percent. This date also marks the beginning of the final year in a six-year transition period negotiated in the 1988 U.S./Japan beef liberalization agreement. The beef agreement replaced Japan's beef import quota system with a declining tariff schedule, and removed restrictions on the purchasing and distribution of beef in Japan's market. Japan's Ministry of Agriculture recently indicated that when the agreement expires on April 1, 1994, it plans to maintain the 50 percent tariff.

Seng, who recently returned from Tokyo, says Japan's position on tariffs should be strongly challenged in order to stimulate further tariff reductions after 1993.

"Lower duties will have a positive impact on price and will make U.S. beef products more attractive to the Japanese trade and consumers," said Seng. "This is particularly significant because of Japan's recession, which has made consumers much more price conscious."

Japan is the largest market for U.S. beef exports. Valued at $1.5 billion in 1992, U.S. beef exports to Japan (including beef variety meats) account for 60 percent of all beef export sales by value. Seng predicts U.S. beef exports to Japan will increase 17 percent in 1993 over 1992 levels.

Despite Japan's economic recession, overall demand for beef in Japan increased 9.1 percent in 1992. The U.S. share of Japan's beef import market has climbed steadily from an estimated 15 percent in the early 1980s to 45 percent today in volume, and 57 percent in value.

"We can be proud of our achievements in the Japanese market, but this has really been just the prelude," said Seng. "Japanese consumers eat only about one-fourth as much beef as we do in the United States. With a population of 127 million people and very high per capita income, the growth potential is immense."

Adams County Farmers Meet

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The annual spring meeting of the Adams County Farmers' Association was held at the Gettysburg Community Fire Hall with a commodity reception hosted by the beef, dairy, and apple queens of Adams County.

"The purpose of the meeting was to familiarize the membership with special programs and business services offered to our members, such as the insurance and farm management," stated committee Chairperson Kevin Holtzinger.

After giving the progress report for the association's activities this year, President Ed Wilkinson introduced both guests and board members. Also included on the agenda was a summary of the benefits of being a member in the group: insurance, advisory council update, consumer marketing, livestock marketing, women's functions, farm management, public relations, and group purchasing as presented by the respective committee chairpersons.

An added attraction was the special entertainment provided by the "ACTS," Adult Citizens Theatrical Society, of Adams County. The society, consisting of retired citizens, was organized 10 years ago as a group to meet and read plays or attend theatrical bus trips. The group originally was launched with eight members but now boasts of more than 60 full-time participants. The presentation for the association was from the "California Suite" starring Genevieve Slegal and Harold Dunkleberger.

Legislators Hear District Concerns

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Directors and staff of conservation districts throughout Pennsylvania traveled to the state capitol recently to meet with legislators on current issues affecting their operations in the conservation of Pennsylvania's natural resources.

The annual Capitol Day is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation District Directors, Inc. (PACD), the non-profit organization representing Pennsylvania's 66 conservation districts in Harrisburg.

The priority issue for conservation districts this year is funding. State funding is allocated to conservation districts through the State Conservation Commission for the employment of professional staff, administrative expenses, and special conservation projects.

The annual budget appropriation has remained the same since Fiscal Year 1988-1989 and is proposed at the same level for the 1993-1994 Fiscal Year.

"Conservation districts must have a significant funding increase in order to catch up with rising costs and current needs in manpower and special projects," said Kurt Leitholf, executive director of the PACD. "While conservation districts are being asked to do more by state and federal agencies, budget appropriations are not keeping pace. The result is our inability to maintain staff levels, let alone increase them to handle the added workload."

The Capitol Day participants also presented their views on relevant bills currently under consideration. Conservation districts support the environmental education goals of Senate Bill 181. They also encourage the passage of House Bill 100 which mandates that farms with excessive animal density be required to prepare nutrient management plans.

On the subject of management of Pennsylvania's surface and groundwater resources, Senate Bill 351 proposes to establish within the Department of Environmental Resources a comprehensive program of water management, thus placing the development of water resources and water emergency management plans in the hands of the state. Conservation districts believe that this authority should rest with regional resource boards.

Swine Rations For Summer Heat

It won't be long before heat will begin to affect swine production in southeast Pennsylvania. Hogs are more sensitive to heat the heavier they get. Heat-stressed pigs eat less, which means their growth rate takes a turn for the worse. As a hog surpasses 200 pounds, daily feed intake can drop to near zero when temperatures exceed 90°F. An occasional temperature surge won't do much harm, but a week's worth can create bottlenecks.

With summer weather soon upon us, it's a good idea to re-evaluate the nutrient density of your finishing ration. Start with amino acids, the most limiting nutrient for grow-finish pigs. Up the lysine during hot weather by 10 percent to 15 percent to counter the drop in feed intake. That should help market hogs maintain performance and realize their full lean-growth potential. Adding energy-dense fat to the diet (fat has about 2.25 times more energy than carbohydrates or proteins) helps maintain pigs' calorie intake even though they eat less. Because it's more easily digested than fiber, fat helps keep body temperatures down.

Respiratory Health Odds Against You

If you own, manage, or work in a hog confinement building, chances are you will encounter one or several health problems. You may not notice them because daily exposure reduces your sensitivity to the symptoms.

In research studies of workers in swine confinement buildings in the United States, Canada, and Sweden, 60 percent had some breathing problem. The person often thought it was the flu or due to smoking.

Smoking does, in fact, intensify potential respiratory problems. Coughing, phlegm production, scratchy throats, and running noses top the lists of health problems associated with confinement buildings. Workers also reported burning/watery eyes, headaches, chest tightness, shortness of breath, and wheezing as lesser concerns.

The amount of time you spend in confinement buildings influences the severity of these respiratory problems, as do the dust levels and ammonia concentrations. While only specific respirators protect against gases, several versions can protect you from inhaling dust. Disposable two-strap masks cost between $1 to $4 each and are effective for approximately a week. The one-strap versions are unacceptable.

Pastures For Profit

If you want to make a profit from your pastures, you must think of yourself as a pasture farmer, putting the same amount of effort into establishing and managing your pastures as you would into any other crop How many farmers would grow corn, wheat, or alfalfa with the same low level of soil fertility and low level of management that they use on their pastures?

Serious weed and fertility problems must be taken care of before you intensify your grazing system. Once weeds are under control and optimal fertility levels are reached, good grazing management will help maintain fertility while decreasing or even preventing further weed problems. If you fail to manage your pastures well, they will soon revert back to the same weedy infertile condition and your dollars will have been wasted.

Good rotational grazing systems will tend to keep most weeds out of pastures. Grazing management alone, however, will not normally correct serious pre-existing weed problems. Plants such as thistles, brush, and poisonous plants may continue to be a problem even after you have intensified your system, since they are seldom eaten even at high stocking rates. Weeds are generally more of a problem in overgrazed, infertile pastures than in fertile, well-managed pastures.

Pasture Seeding With Livestock

Before tearing up your current pasture, consider improving what is already there. Many naturally growing forages are well adapted to your pasture and will give adequate yields, which can be improved with proper fertilization and good grazing management.

Quackgrass, or example, is an excellent forage with high yields and crude protein values that may exceed 20 percent. Just switching from continuous to rotational grazing can boost yields by up to 40 percent.

Seeding legumes into run-down pastures is the most common form of renovation. Legumes reduce the dependence on nitrogen fertilizers and complement grasses by balancing forage production throughout the season and providing more balanced nutrition Examples of pasture establishment and renovation methods would include conventional seeding reduced tillage or no-till, frost seeding, and livestock seeding.

Using livestock to do the seeding for you is by far the easiest and cheapest way to renovation Not only do they disperse the seed, but they add a little fertilizer and moisture! To produce a good stand, however, may take three to five years. Because of how animals manure, using livestock as your seeders will produce less uniform stands than the previously mentioned methods.

There are a number of ways to use livestock for seeding:

- Add some forage seed to the mineral mix (about 5 pounds seed to 50 pounds mineral), then put your animals in the pasture you woul like re-seeded.
- Allow a pasture of established legumes to go to seed, graze them, and move animals to the pasture to be re-seeded.
- Add seed to manure that you will spread on your pastures.

Financial Analysis From A Lender's Perspective

Editor's Note: This is the second of a seven part series to explain how Farm Credit analyzes farm and ranch businesses. A different aspect of financial analysis is addressed in each issue.

Farm or ranch visits — an important part of loan administration

Farm visits — routine calls to your operation by a lender — provide several unique opportunities for you First, they allow personal, one-on-one contact with your credit officer to discuss your loan in the comfort of your own surroundings. Also, farm visits are a chance for other family members or employees to meet your credit officer.

Farm visits are equally important for a lender. Generally, they enable credit officers to make a visual analysis of customers' operations to verify the existence and value of assets pledged as collateral Most importantly, however, a farm visit allows a credit officer to get to know your personal and business goals and to understand the unique characteristics of your specific farm or ranch.

Objectives of a farm visit

A farm visit is not an endeavor for lenders to manage your business. Rather, it's an attempt to:

- increase credit officer's knowledge of individual operations and management practices;
- allow farmer/rancher to become better acquainted with his credit officer;
- evaluate crop and livestock production levels and potential;
- assess adequacy of equipment;
- confirm value of assets; and
- follow up on loan progress.

What to expect during a farm visit

A credit officer will normally schedule one or more farm visits prior to the closing of your loan and/or at regular intervals during the course of your loan. Upon arrival, the credit officer will review your financial and production records and inspect the following:

- Crops — (inside growing season) check standing crops for quality of land and soil, general condition, and management practices; (outside growing season) examine stored crops in grain bins, hay sheds, potato cellars.
- Livestock — confirm head count, ages and weights; review quality of facilities, condition of livestock and management practices.
- Machinery — examine appearance and state of repair; compare serial numbers to those originally filed; review values reported in relation to appraisals.

In addition, credit officers will view all secured assets and any other real estate fixtures being financed.

How to prepare for a farm visit

Before a credit officer arrives for the visit, gather together as much production and financial information — such as yields and prices received — as possible. Then, be available to discuss and show him or her your operation.

Remember, a farm visit is a normal lending procedure. Knowledge gained during a farm visit allows lenders to make fully informed credit decisions, offer their best service, and foster a mutually beneficial working relationship with you. ❖

Next week we will look at the importance of liquidity.

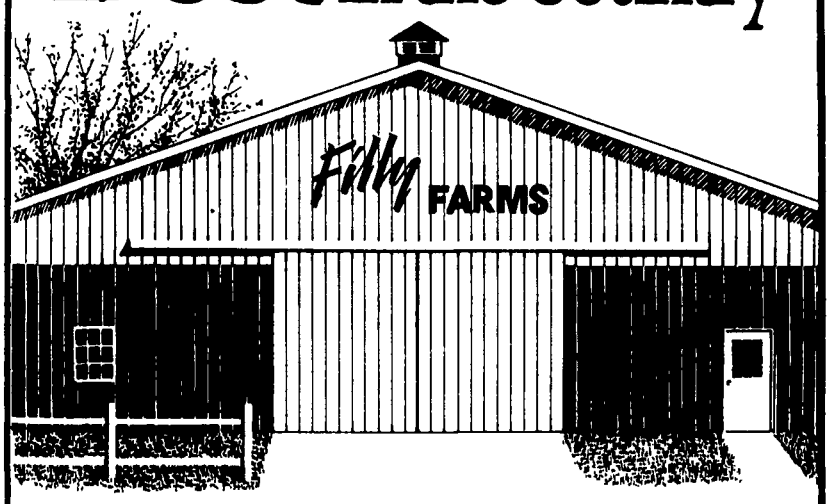
Best in the Country



For rough duty, rougher weather: Rugged, practical, cost-efficient Centurydrain™ roofing and siding.

Centurydrain is the roofing and siding to use for a strong, tight structure that'll carry you through the years of heavy snows, driving rain, and ripping winds.

Wheeling Centurydrain is pure practicality: full-hard, high tensile steel; galvanized for toughness, durability, and rust resistance; and with an exclusive drain channel for a dry, snug interior.

Handsome appearance, too: bold shadow lines and a choice of rich, baked-on colors. The best in the country is right here. Stop by.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

HIGH TENSILE FENCE...THE FARMER'S BEST INVESTMENT

Testimonial from a very satisfied customer—

The Beaver Fence Systems are tops! We installed 1 mile of their fence on our farm on Feb. 3, 1993, full size post, 3-1/2 feet deep, excellent braces. We used 5 strand (2 elec.) high tensil, all in place in just 8-1/2 hours! The fence is as straight as an arrow-excellent equipment-very efficient work!

"I am a hard man to convince, but after I saw how Beaver built the fence, I'm ready to put my digging iron away," says David W. Brubaker of Honey Grove Acres, RD1, Box 629 Honey Grove, PA 17035

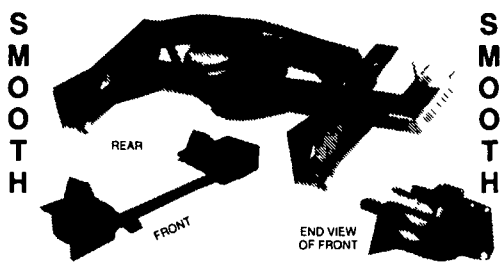
KELDERMAN AIR RIDE



Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system.

Optional 12 volt compressor allows changing air pressure setting on the go.

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models

Also available for some Ford, Chevy, and GMC truck models Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/camping trips

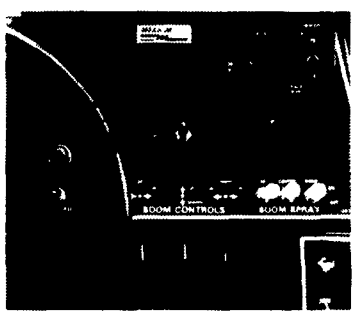
Discover the Spra-Coupe Advantage

Model 220 Wide Front

When You Can't Afford The Weight!

A Melroe Spra-Coupe gets you through your fields with efficiency, minimum tracking damage and easy maneuverability. You can rely on the Spra-Coupe advantage offering a lightweight, heavy-duty sprayer that's fast, comfortable and versatile.

• Spra-Coupe's speed and ease of handling means you're finished with your spraying before others who use slower and bulkier sprayers.

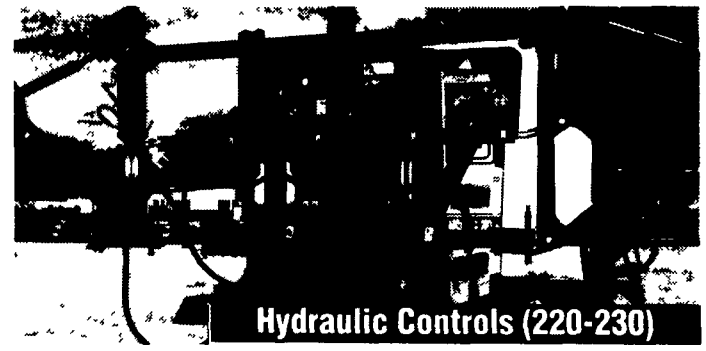


Spra Controller... A computer-based control console automatically maintains your flow regardless of speed or gear selection.

• With the full line of Spra-Coupe options and accessories, every Spra-Coupe model turns into the ideal sprayer for small grains and row crops.

• Spra-Coupe has been a leader across the nation for three decades.

So take some of the weight off the fields that mean so much to you. Check out a Melroe Spra-Coupe or see a custom applicator who owns a Spra-Coupe and control your weight!

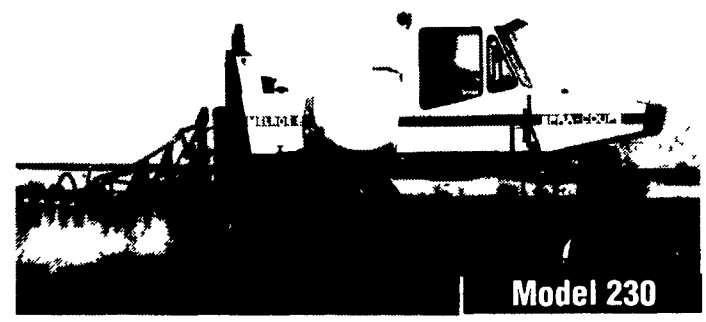


Hydraulic Controls (220-230)

Boom height, Boom tip and Boom fold are all hydraulically controlled from the comfortable cab so correct boom height from tip to target can be easily obtained.

Model 216

Great for small grains and row crops, the 216 reaches speeds over 24 m.p.h., features electric boom selector valves and electrically adjustable boom height.



Model 230

The mighty 230 offers high efficiency in a high-clearance sprayer for the taller crops such as cotton. The wide front is standard for more stability on all terrain.

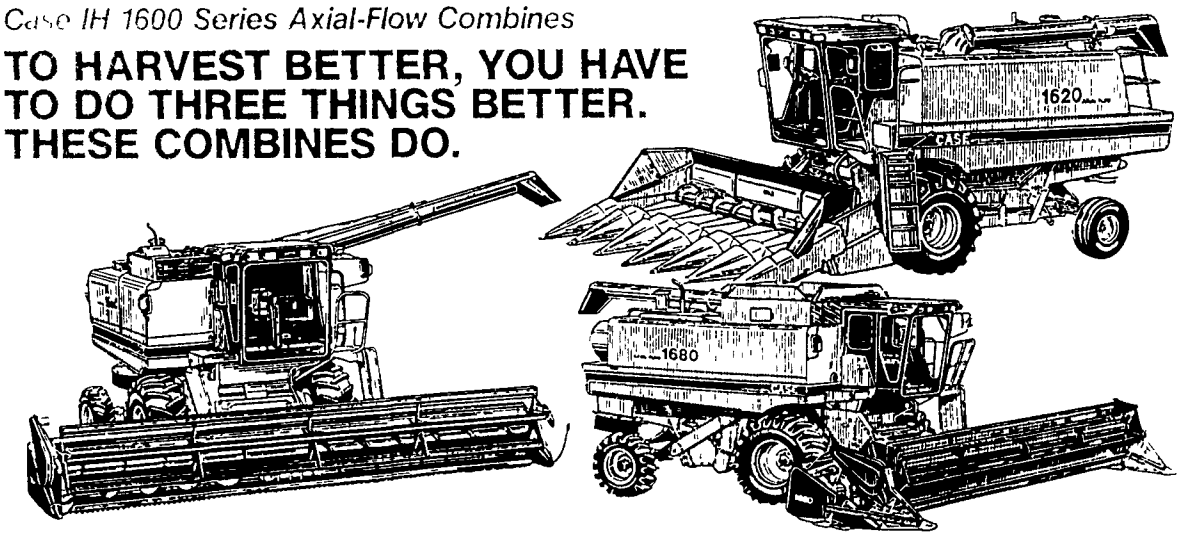
Case IH 1600 Series Axial-Flow Combines

TO HARVEST BETTER, YOU HAVE TO DO THREE THINGS BETTER. THESE COMBINES DO.



CHOOSE THE MODEL SIZED TO YOUR ACREAGE.

- 1620: A 124-hp unit, with 125-bushel tank, it's an efficient performer for small to moderate acreages.
- 1640: Rated at 150 hp, carrying a 145-bushel tank, it performs on the upper edge of its mid-sized rating.
- 1660: Its 180-hp rating and 180-bushel grain tank let it perform with any combine in its size.
- 1680: At 225 hp, equipped with a 210-bushel grain tank, it's suited to the biggest acreages anywhere.

Your crop is your paycheck. Harvest it better and you get more return on the time, money and hard work invested in it.

Case IH 1600 Series Combines do just that... in the three ways that count most.

One, they harvest faster. They've got the horsepower to move them through the field at top speeds. And their big threshing, separating and grain-conveying capacities easily handle high-yielding crops.

Two, they deliver more high-quality grain The cage's large separating area distributes material more evenly to the sieves, increasing their efficiency. A variable-speed advanced-design cleaning fan finishes the thorough cleaning process for tops in clean high-quality grain.

Three, they're easier on your crops. With Axial-Flow, the single large rotor threshes your grain, gently...unlike the single, severe threshing action of conventional combines that damages kernels. So gentle, thorough Axial-Flow action means less cracked corn and less dockage at the elevator.

Result: a bigger paycheck.

And there's a Case IH Grain or Corn Head to match any cropping practice.

AN EGG A DAY?
Roland M. Leach
Professor of Poultry Science

Beginning with the first epidemiological study suggesting a link between serum cholesterol and heart disease, the per capita consumption of eggs has been on a downhill slide. The implications for the poultry industry are obvious.

The issue of the relationship between cholesterol and heart disease is a very controversial and emotional issue. There are really two issues: (1) what is the relationship between diet and serum cholesterol? (2) What is the relationship between serum cholesterol and heart disease?

Frankly, it is possible to find a research report or clinical study to support any stance that one wants to take on these issues. However, the fact of life is that many national health organizations are recommending that the American public reduce cholesterol consumption.

The poultry industry has gone through several strategies in dealing with this issue. Originally there was a lot of denial and criticism of the epidemiological and research data. This was perceived by many as a protection of self-interests rather than an objective approach to the situation. A second approach has been to emphasize the important positive nutritional attributes of eggs — facts that are still valid today.

When it became clear that the recommendations for reduced cholesterol consumption were here to stay, other approaches had to be utilized. The marketing of egg products with reduced amounts of cholesterol has been one approach. Several of these are in use today.

Another approach was to try to alter the amount of cholesterol that a hen deposits in an egg. In general, this has been unsuccessful. The cholesterol content of the egg is basically resistant to change. There is a likely explanation for this observation. Cholesterol is an important constituent of body tissues and is a precursor for steroid hormones and vitamin D. The chicken does not develop the ability to synthesize cholesterol until 10-14 days of age. Thus, the cholesterol in the egg is needed by the developing embryo since it lacks the ability to synthesize cholesterol. Removal of cholesterol from the egg may interfere with perpetuation of the species.

The latest approach has been the marketing of "modified eggs." We have recently received a number of inquiries about these eggs. I have tried to gather as much information as possible so that I can provide answers to some of the questions that have arisen. The "modified eggs" are obtained from hens fed a propriety feed. The eggs have a higher vitamin E and iodine content and some modest changes in fat composition. The "modified eggs," which contain the normal amount of cholesterol (213 milligrams), were used in a clinical trial by the Medical College of Pennsylvania. In this trial, 100 volunteers who had high amounts of serum cholesterol (238 milligrams/100 milliliters of serum) agreed to change to a diet recommended by the National Cholesterol Education Program (NEP). One half of the volunteers received the NCEP diet while one half the volunteers consumed the NCEP diet plus 12 "modified eggs" per week.

Both groups experienced a 7 percent decline in serum cholesterol during the 3-week test period. This led to the conclusion that individuals could consume 12 "modified eggs" per week without raising their serum cholesterol.

However, there was a serious flaw in this experiment. There should have been a third group consuming regular eggs. This would have established whether or not the "modified eggs" had any special value with respect to serum cholesterol.

Unfortunately, the question remains to be answered.

Nutrient Management Protects Water Supply

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Nutrient management on the farm has become necessary to protect our water supply. The main nutrient to be concerned about is nitrogen, which is found in manure.

Too much nitrogen can affect the health of children and also the health of farm animals. Too many nutrients in our waterways will cause problems with plant and aquatic life which exists there.

Benefits from a nutrient management plan (NMP) include reducing nutrient pollution to surface and ground water, and better crop utilization.

Farmers can protect the environment by applying manure and other fertilizers in quantities necessary to grow crops. Other factors to take into consideration are time of application, incorporation, and erosion control. These are ways of getting nutrients there, in such a manner that they stay where applied. Erosion is controlled by waterways, terraces, diversions, contourstrips, cover crops, buffer strips along creeks, and residue management.

Another important factor of a successful nutrient management plan would be enough land to receive manure for the number of animals on a given farm. Pending legislation in Harrisburg would require farmers with more than two animal equivalent units (AEU) per acre of crop land to have a nutrient management plan. It is also advisable for farmers with less AEU.

Help on working up a nutrient management plan that would save farmers money by utilizing nutrients from animal manure generated on the farm, can be received by calling your conservation district. For Tulpehocken and Manatawny Watershed farmers in Berks County, and Tulpehocken Watershed farmers in Lebanon County, contact Gerald Batz at the Berks County Conservation District at (215) 372-4657.

Farmers Awarded Grants To Test Practices

BURLINGTON, Vt. — The Northeast Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program has awarded $19,714 in grants to six Pennsylvania farmers to test innovative farming techniques and share what they learn with other producers.

The farmers, whose projects range from testing alternatives to fungicides for strawberries to demonstrating stewardship forestry for farms, will receive the grants through the Northeast Region SARE program's new Farmer/Grower Grant program. In total, $96,447 was awarded to 36 farmers in the 12-state region.

While scores of farmers have participated in the SARE program's larger, interdisciplinary research and education projects, this year's Farmer/Grower Grant program marks the first time the region has allocated funds specifically for farmer-initiated projects.

Northeast Region SARE Coordinator Fred Magdoff said the goal is to stimulate interest in alternative practices that could lead to a more sustainable agriculture, and to help farmers test innovative ideas.

"We know there is a tremendous reservoir of knowledge and initiative in the farmers and growers in the region," Magdoff said. "Farmers have a lot of good ideas, but sometimes they can't afford to take the risk of giving them a try. We hope that what these farmers are doing will be helpful not only for them and their neighbors, but that we may also learn things that can be used in other places."

The Pennsylvania farmers selected for funding are:

• Dwight Mickey, of Chambersburg, who will receive $1,839 to evaluate the effectiveness of reduced chemical measures in a commercial peach and apple orchards. The project will use mating disruption and pheromone traps for insect control, and will compare conventional chemical fumigation with using canola oil to control dagger nematodes. Diseases will be monitored and the participants will make predictions for pears and applies with a leaf wetness recorder.

• Ellen Reker, of new Tripoli, who will receive $5,000 to demonstrate the use of cashmere-producing goats to reclaim a 13-acre abandoned pasture. Reker's goal is to show that the goats can be used as a cost-effective alternative to chemical week and brush control, as well as to characterize the types of weeds and brush goats can control.

• Derek and B.C. Dickson, of Franklin, who will receive $5,000 to build threes constructed wetland on their farm to improve water quality and wildlife habitat and educate other farmers. By taking selected areas of the farm out of production, the Dicksons are attempting to balance productivity with environmental goals.

• George W. Freeman, of Knox, who will receive $3,890 to demonstrate the effects of different timber harvesting strategies in Pennsylvania hardwoods. The project will focus on the long-term economic effects of harvesting on the total farm budget. This demonstration/study will be maintained for at least 10 years as a training site for farmers and loggers by the Penn State Cooperative Extension, the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry, and others.

• Diane Matthews-Gehringer, of Kutztown, who will receive $2,155 to compare the effectiveness of releasing parasitic wasps and insecticidal baits in reducing fly populations in hog and cattle housing.

• James Perkins, of Bath, who will receive $1,830 to experiment with the use of peracetic acid to control soft fruit rots in strawberries and raspberries. The project's goals are to determine whether peracetic acid (which breaks down to vinegar and water) could provide an environmentally benign alternative to currently available fungicides.

Select The Right Knives For The Job

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Don't get caught unprepared this spring when the haying season hits high gear. By checking and replacing key parts on your mower-conditioner, such as knife sections, you can improve efficiency and reduce downtime.

"When most mower-conditioners come out of mothballs, they often aren't given enough attention to do a proper job," said Mike Cooper, product and pricing analyst, Ford New Holland Parts and Service Operations. "Knife sections are one of the most important, and often overlooked, maintenance considerations."

With all the tough wear and tear on knife sections, they're the most frequently replaced part on mower conditioners, he adds. When selecting replacements, it's important to note that the cutting edge, material, thickness, and quality all affect knife section performance.

* Cutting edge. Three basic cutting edge options are available for use on mower-conditioners: over-serrated, under-serrated and smooth. The most widely used cutting edge today is the over-serrated. Because it sharpens itself, this cutting edge performs well in most crop conditions and is properly suited to abrasive soils. Under-serrated and smooth knives work best in tough, stringy grass, said Cooper.

* Material. High-quality knife sections are made from induction-hardened spring steel and feature double-hardened cutting edges and back edges. For increased durability and resistance to rust during the off-season, some farmers prefer chrome plated knife sections. These high-performance knives have a mechanical chrome coating that offers increased strength and longer wear life. Chrome knife sections are often preferred by custom-operators, Cooper said.

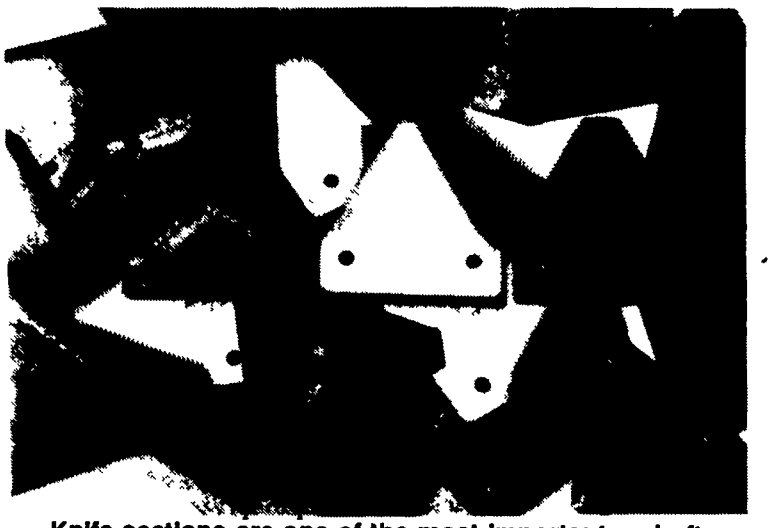
* Thickness. Thickness of knife sections affects mower-conditioner performance in two ways. Since the knife sections, guards and and knife clips are dimensioned to within .005 to .020 of an inch, even a minor difference in knife thickness can disrupt the cutting mechanism. For mower-conditioners that require thinner knife sections, he recommends replacement parts that are induction-hardened on the back edge as well as the cutting edge for increased wear life. Thicker knife sections wear longer and are less likely to break.

However, using knife sections that exceed recommendations will increase the load on the knife drives. Mixing knife sections of different thicknesses is not recommended, he adds.

* Quality. Cooper advises farmers to evaluate replacement knife sections for such quality factors as thickness and hardness. "Usually, you get what you pay for in selecting replacement knife sections. Buying cheaper, lower quality parts doesn't always save you money, especially when you consider increased downtime. Your local Ford New Holland equipment dealer can help you get the right part for your machine as well as the best value for your money."

Selecting the best type of knife for the job also depends on soil and crop conditions. Factors such as crop density, stringiness and moisture all can affect cutting performance and the service life of the knife sections.

"Most complaints about mower-conditioner performance can be traced back to improper maintenance of the cutting mechanism," said Cooper. By replacing worn or bent knife sections, farmers may avoid the hassles of reduced operation speed, increased cutting load and increased horsepower requirements. "Most importantly, proper pre-season maintenance saves valuable haymaking time," he said.



Knife sections are one of the most important and often overlooked maintenance considerations on mower conditioners. With all the wear and tear these machines encounter, they are the most frequently replaced part.

FPPF Polar Power

Keeps Your Diesel Running In The Worst Winter Cold!

Fuel filters, separators do nothing to keep diesel fuel from the waxing or gelling that blocks up and clogs fuel lines and filters.

FPPF Polar Power contains FPPF's Fuel Power and FPPF's Polarized Diesel Fuel Flow Improver, the industry's leaders. It will keep your diesel running in the worst winter cold: lowering the pour-point, totally dispersing water, eliminating gum/varnish...outperforming all other additives and at lower cost.

Agway To Distribute Supplements

MANKATO, Minn. — Hubbard Milling Company has entered into an agreement with Agway Inc. to distribute CRYSTALYX® Brand Supplements.

Under the agreement, Agway Inc., a Syracuse, N.Y. based farm cooperative, will market Hubbard's full line of CRYSTALYX® Brand Supplements through their distribution network in 12 northeastern states.

CRYSTALYX® Brand Supplements are nutrient-dense molasses blocks that provide energy, protein, vitamin and mineral supplements for dairy, beef, sheep and horses. CRYSTALYX® Brand Supplements are manufactured through a patented process and are the industry's most popular big block molasses product.

Bob Frost, general manager of Hubbard Milling Company's Feed Division, said this agreement is important in terms of partnering relationships. "Agway is an excellent and reputable company with many growth-oriented goals similar to ours," he said. "We look forward to working with them." Frost went on to say that this agreement is also important to the Company's distribution strategy. "Our goal is to distribute CRYSTALYX® Brand Supplements throughout North America," he said. "This agreement is a big step toward realizing that goal."

Clayton Moore, director of feed marketing and technical services at Agway, is also pleased and optimistic about the agreement with Hubbard. "CRYSTALYX® Brand Supplements offer us new market opportunities that will significantly increase our dairy, beef and sheep feed market share," Moore said. "We are excited about the opportunities this agreement represents for us. It helps us meet our mission of continually providing products and services to satisfy the needs of our customers."

Thinking About Building New Facility?

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — Livestock and poultry managers should calculate nutrient management requirements before building a new facility for expansion, say two Penn State agronomists.

"Before proposing a new facility as part of a business plan, it's prudent to evaluate the costs and returns of the facility under different sets of nutrient management conditions," said Dr. Les Lanyon, associate professor of agronomy. "Diffreent conditions require different manure application practices and perhaps alternative methods of dealing with manure."

For livestock and poultry managers who wish to make their own calculations, the local Penn State Cooperative Extension office or conservation district office can assist. Private consultants and companies also can handle these calculations.

Livestock and poultry managers should first estimate the available nutrients in the manure and compare that to the requirements of their crops. Since the availability of nitrogen in manure varies with how it is handled and applied, calculations for different periods before incorporation will result in different acreages required to balance the supply with the crop needs. "For example, there is less than half as much available N in unincorporated manure than in manure that is incorporated immediately," said Lanyon.

A nutrient management plan based on nitrogen will require more than twice as many acres when manure is incorporated immediately than when manure is unincorporated.

"Even though a nutrient management plan may call for applying manure but not plowing it under, nutrients might still be incorporated into the soil by rainfall," said Dr. Douglas Beegle, associate professor of agronomy.

Incorporation of manure and increased availability of the nitrogen will occur with one-half inch of rain within 3 to 4 days of manure application. This amount of rain is very likely in the early spring when manure is being spread.

Calculating the available nitrogen with no incorporation followed by another estimate of the nitrogen with incorporation after three days can illustrate the range in nitrogen that likely will be available to crops under different conditions. This figure can help in deciding how many acres will be routinely required to manage nutrients for crop production and environmental protection.

Another preliminary calculation would be to estimate the balance between the phosphorus in the manure and the phosphorus requirements of the crops to be grown. "Losses of phosphorus during manure handling and spreading are generally much less than for nitrogen," said Lanyon. "The area required for phosphorus application can be several times greater than the area required to supply the nitrogen needed by crops."

There's also a possibility of unexpected costs. The requirements for nitrogen and phosphorus management may change during the life of the mortgage or loan on a new facility. Additional acres may be required for manure application at additional cost, or alternatives to land application at the site of the new facility may need to be developed.

It's also important to get an accurate estimate of nutrients in a planned manure storage. Estimating the actual nutrients to be excreted by the animals is a good starting point to evaluate a proposal for a new livestock or poultry facility. This calculation will indicate the maximum amount of nutrients that will have to be managed.

Manure samples from comparable manure storages can be used to estimate the nutrients that will be available to be applied to crops. But if the samples are unrepresentative of the manure actually in the storage, then estimates of the area required for manure application may be misleading. "Truly representative samples are difficult to collect from some types of manure storage structures," said Lanyon.

If there is a large difference between the estimate of nutrients produced and the estimate of nutrients coming out of a proposed storage, the proposed storage and handling system should be evaluated in more detail. The source of the difference between the nutrients produced and the estimated removal from a storage may be in the estimates of manure production, losses unaccounted during handling, or in the difficulty in sampling comparable storages.

If the problem is in sampling, that may signal potential management problems. There may actually be more manure nutrients to manage than are estimated by the samples. Manure solids that are difficult to agitate can accumulate in some storages. The nutrients in these solids will need to be handled in a safe way as will the rest of the nutrients. Problems in sampling also can mean that the nutrient content of the manure removed from the storage varies widely.

Delivering a dependable amount of nutrients to the crop fields, even when the necessary number of acres is available, will be difficult when this happens. In either case, more effort will be required to mange nutrients for crop production and environmental protection. These management demands should be considered before the project is begun.

Finally, different projected crop yields can be used in the calculations. "Projected yields should rarely exceed by more than 20 to 25 percent the average yields for the last five years," said Beegle. It's also important to do additional calculations to estimate the different acreages required at average and below average crop yields.

The final projected crop area for manure application probably will be a compromise between all the different calculations. After making these calculations, it may be necessary to modify the business plan for the proposed livestock or poultry facility to cover costs of manure application on a larger number of acres, to develop a management strategy to enhance potential crop yields, or to find an alternative way to deal with the manure produced.

If these calculations are done before building the facility, the livestock or poultry manager will know the most demanding case from the outset. A contingency plan then can be made in case of changing on-farm decisions or new governmental policies.

Checkoffs Sustain U.S. Beef Export Gains

DENVER, Colo. — U.S. beef exports to Japan continue to climb despite Japan's worst recession since the early 1970s. Much of the credit, according to the U.S. Meat Export Federation (USMEF), can be attributed to the U.S. beef checkoff program.

"The beef checkoff program is absolutely vital to expanding U.S. beef sales in the Japanese market," said Sue Sadinski, USMEF director of beef programs. "Without the beef checkoff program, Japanese consumers would be eating less beef and the U.S. would be losing market share to Australia."

The first checkoff funded programs were initiated by USMEF in the Japanese market in 1988. Since that time, U.S. beef and beef variety meat exports to Japan have increased 45 percent, reaching a record $1.5 billion in 1992.

As U.S. suppliers have penetrated further into the Japanese market, program emphasis has shifted increasingly to the retail sector, particularly the supermarkets. The results have been dramatic.

According to the latest independent evaluation of USMEF programs, the five largest supermarket chains in Japan recorded a 20 percent increase in U.S. beef purchases in 1992. In this instance, beef checkoff dollars were used to produce point of sale materials and displays for supermarket promotions. They also provided for the development and placement of local advertising to coincide with these retail promotions and attract consumers to the meat counter.

Conducted by International Investment Consultants, Inc., the evaluation also confirmed that shelf space in Japanese supermarkets for U.S. beef has increased significantly since 1988, up 10-40 percent, depending on the supermarket. Sadinski points out that these gains are particularly significant since retail prices for U.S. beef are typically 10-20 percent higher than Australian beef.

"We stress the quality and safety attributes of U.S. beef in all of our programs," said Sadinski. "Because we sell quality rather than price, we have to go the extra mile with our programs to distinguish our product from the competition."

Many of these programs would not be possible without support from the beef checkoff program, notes Sadinski. "The important point for cattlemen," she said, "is that checkoff-funded programs are making a difference in foreign markets." The U.S. share of the Japanese beef import market (by volume) increased from 43.8 percent in 1991 to 45.0 percent in 1992. By value, the U.S. share of Japan's beef import market increased from 54.3 percent in 1991 to 57.2 percent in 1992.

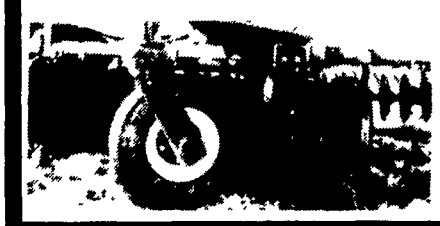
The Secret To A Level Field Is The Sunflower GAUGE WHEELS



A trademark on all FLEXIBLE Sunflower Discs is Front-Mounted Gauge Wheels. This Important Feature Prevents the Front Gangs Of The Wing Frame From Gouging, Buckling or Cutting Deeper Than The Other Gangs, Promoting A Level Ridge Or Furrow-Free Field. The Heavy Duty Gauge Wheel Features A 5-Bolt Hub And 8.00x10 Ply Tire and Tube.

DOUBLE OFFSET DESIGN

Eliminates center ridging while cutting the entire width at an even depth. Self-leveling hitch provides fore & aft leveling at any working depth.

Great Plains

THE NO-TILL GRAIN DRILL LEADER...

Great Plains delivers good, even stands in a wide variety of soil and residue conditions. The components are simple: The coulter provides a mini-seedbed and the depth gauging press wheel runs smoothly on the soil cleared by the coulter (and then by the opener), ensuring accurate depth control of the opener. The opener delivers the seed to the bottom of the seed trench where the seed is firmed into the moist soil at a consistent depth.

THERE IS A GREAT PLAINS NO-TIL DRILL for you — from 7' to 30'...

Great Plains

Dedicated to the science of no-till seeding.

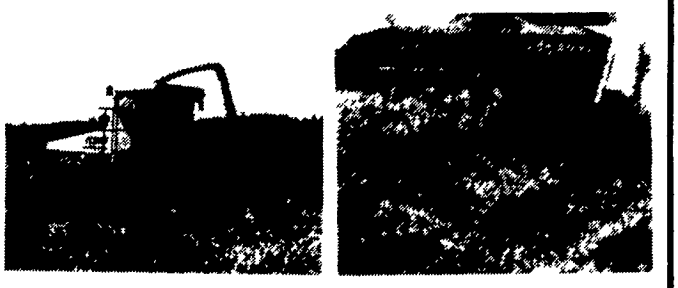
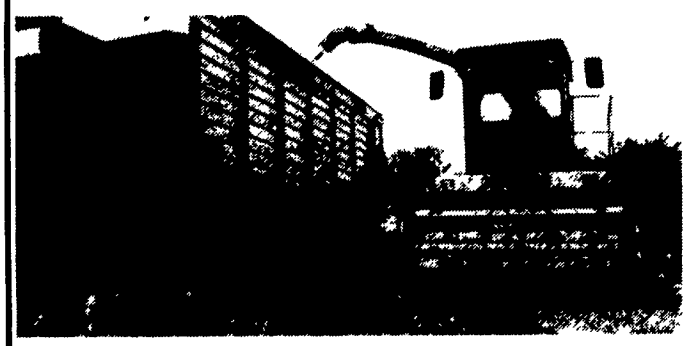
Self propelled forage harvesters for highest capacities and universal operation

It's up to you and the available transport systems whether to harvest corn with 4 or 6 rows.

Harvesting whole crop silage with the cereal cutterbar of your combine harvester or grass with the mowing attachment to be subsequently processed by a drying installation.





For grass harvesting you need clean and troublefree pickup operation. These are the three working widths you may choose from: 4:30, 3.00 and 2.20 m.

"Variable chamber balers produce higher nutrient bales."

FACT: No other round baler on the market preserves original nutrient value like a Claas fixed chamber baler. Independent university tests prove the crude protein value in weathered bales made from a Claas baler exceeds the leading variable chamber baler tested by an average of 20%.

Fact is, the higher the nutrient value at feeding time, the more weight gain or milk production you receive. And you get this from less bales.

Who makes the most practical tractors?

Last year, more value-minded farmers picked Massey-Ferguson than any other make.

In fact, one of every five tractors now sold in the Western World is an M-F. Which makes Massey-Ferguson the Western World's largest tractor manufacturer.

One of the big reasons for this popularity is the great value of the 50-90 PTO hp line of M-F 300 Series tractors.

They all give you the torque, economy and reliability of world-famous Perkins diesel engines and all the advantages of advanced Ferguson system hydraulics. Plus you get the practical features you want, like hydrostatic steering as standard equipment.

Massey-Ferguson engineers put a lot of time and effort into designing these tractors to save more of your time and effort. They're incredibly easy to operate and maintain. And they have one of the best reliability records of any tractor ever made.

We'd like to show you why an M-F 300 Series tractor can be the best value for your hard-earned investment.

Practical choices.

Prep a seedbed with just one pass

The multi-purpose Ford Model 214 seedbed conditioner enables you to prepare a seedbed with just one pass — you'll plant more quickly with less soil loss. The 18-inch discs slice through residue, the shanks or tines mix it with the soil, and the flexible, spike-tooth harrow evens everything out. Stop in to see this latest time-saving minimum tillage tool from Ford New Holland, and make your job just a little easier.

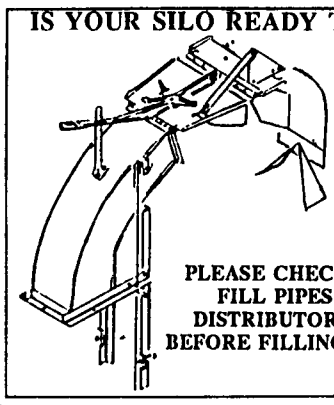
S & S SILO SERVICE

ATTENTION FARMERS
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH GRASS SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

ORDER YOUR NEW SILO WITH A FIBERDOME CHUTE OR REPLACE YOUR OLD WORN OUT CHUTE

fiberdome SILO CHUTE

made with fiberglass, the material of the future — and proven in the past —

The Fiberdome chute is designed and engineered to be installed on most types of silos. Its structure allows it to withstand the toughest beating the weather elements or silo unloading systems can possibly dish out.

The chute is constructed in full 7 ½' sections to minimize the number of joints. Connecting joints have a 2 ½" tongue and groove design to keep feed in and water out. The large ribbed construction adds stability and strength.

Fiberglass is durable, corrosion-proof, attractive and translucent, allowing sunlight to pass through. Sunlight quickly dries interior moisture in the chute. The hard gleaming gelcote surface will remain for many years.

WE CUSTOM DESIGN SYSTEMS FOR YOU

CONCRETE REASONS WHY A NEW POURED CONCRETE SILO IS YOUR BEST INVESTMENT...

A. Enhancement of cash flow. Improved forage quality results in consistent, and increased milk production.

B. "Safe Silo" Our silos meet or exceed industry standards, reducing/ protecting lender liability.

C. Initial Cost. Used or cheap pre-fab silos may have a lower initial cost, but based upon useful life, the new poured concrete silo will have a lower annual cost: due to longer life and lower maintenance costs.

D. Residual Value. Our new, poured concrete silos are built for "generations of use", and enhance the future value of the farm.

E. Storage Losses Reduced. Poured concrete silos consistently out-perform all other methods of storing and preserving the total digestible nutrients in forage crops.

F. Protecting Forage Quality. Oxygen and heat cause the most damage to stored silage and haylage. Our poured concrete silos are the very best system to PROTECT YOUR FORAGE QUALITY... "NOBODY PROTECTS FORAGE QUALITY LIKE WE DO...NOBODY"

PURINA SALUTES

JTJ WAKEFIELD FARMS

Bedford, PA 116 Cows

+2094 Lbs. Milk RHA
+71 Lbs. Fat
+32 Lbs. Protein

In 15 Months On 66% First And Second Calf Cows.

Since starting on Purina Ultimate EXT in December 1990 Jim and Tom Wakefield have seen an average increase of 9½ lbs. of milk per cow per day (adjusted to days in milk) while basically following the same forage program.

Key Advantages Have Been:

- + "We don't see the quick peaks with fast drop offs anymore. Cows hold on from month to month"
- + "First calf heifers average 62.3 lbs. of milk"
- + "Progress has been a reflection of the whole program from calves to dry cows"
- + Since starting with Purina and Bedford Farm Bureau in 1988 our cows have improved despite two droughts, one wet summer, marginal forage quality and increase in herd size without increasing the size of our facility"

The Wakefields are a "Farmers Farm." Good, solid breeding, feeding, and health programs without a lot of fancy equipment or facilities. They prove the consistant value in Purina and the performance potential of Purina Ultimate EXT.
